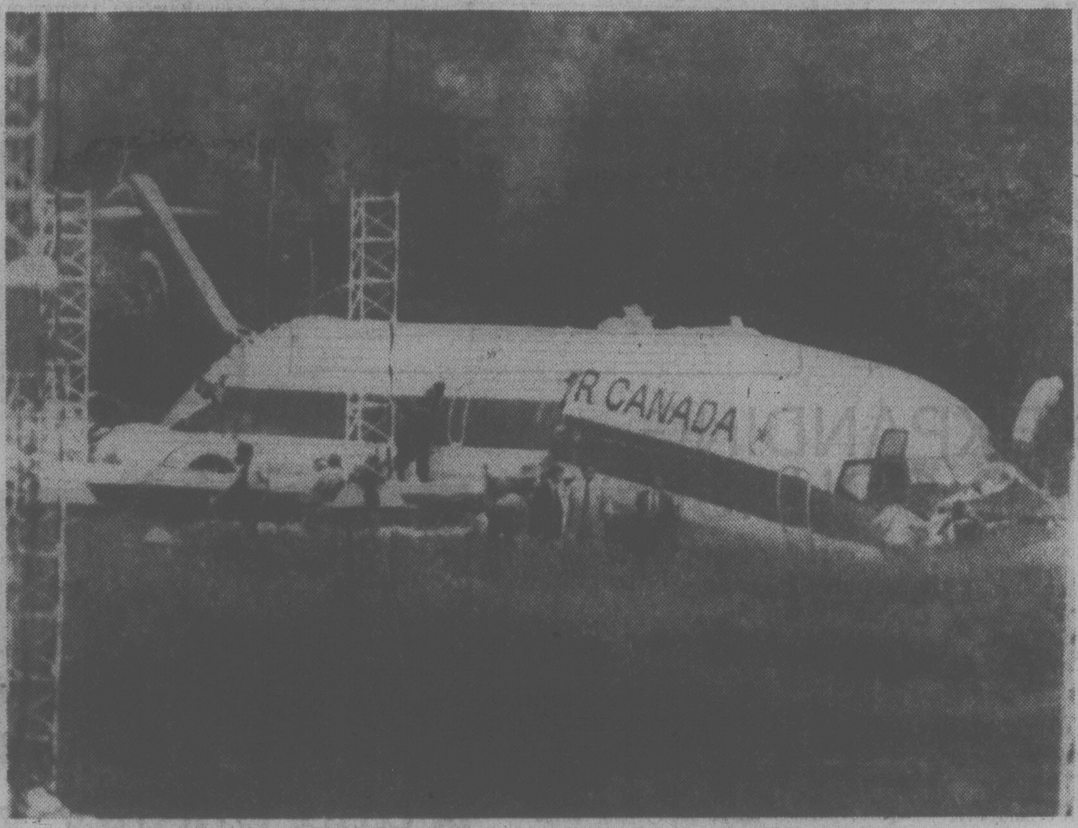
SHOOTS OFF TORONTO RUNWAY

3 Killed In Jet Crash



Air Canada DC-9 after sliding off Toronto runway and crashing into ravine

TORONTO (CP) — Three male passengers were killed and more than 100 injured today when an Air Canada DC-9 jet shot off a runway at Toronto International Airport, dropped about 40 feet into a ravine and broke into three pieces.

Dr. Thomas Daglish, Peel regional coroner, said two people were pronounced dead at the scene. Several passengers were severely injured, most with broken bones, he said. At least 20 passengers walked away from the crash site.

Many of those treated at hospital had only minor injuries and were released.

Paul Roach, a Transport Canada spokesman, confirmed that three persons had died, but the names were not released.

The airport tower said the plane never left the ground, but slid into the ravine after the aborted takeoff.

The DC-9, Air Canada Flight 189 which originated in Ottawa, was bound for Winnipeg and Vancouver and was carrying 102 passengers and a crew of five.

Cause of the crash has not been determined, but early reports said one of the jet's rear-mounted engines had lost power just before takeoff.

The jet left a huge scour mark at the end of runway 23, where the pilot attempted to steer away from hydro cables and pylons.

A ministry of transport official said the pilot's effort saved many passengers.

There was no fire or explosion but Dr. Daglish said the crash site was dangerous because of the fuel still on board. Firefighters from neighboring municipalities and airport emergency crews doused the plane's wings with foam to try to avoid an explosion.

Within 15 minutes of the crash, six doctors, including the coroner, were on the scene.

Bobby Gimby, a bandleader known as Canada's pied piper, escaped the crash with minor cuts to his forehead.

Gimby, who became famous in Centennial Year for his song Can-na-da, which he performed dressed as a pied piper, said passengers were in a state of pandemonium when the crash occurred.

"I was sitting right up front and saw it all. I just held on tight.

"I guess I was one of the lucky ones."

He said the plane "fell straight down, just like going over a cliff."

Rev. Gerald Cochran, a Roman Catholic priest of the Church of the Transfiguration of Our Lord, gave last rites to two men.

The crash scene, he said, was one of "perfect calm and incredible fortitude."

"I was incredibly impressed at people's attitudes. Those who were not too badly injured were walking around helping the more seriously injured before doctors arrived."

Rhodesia Reports Guerrilla Skirmish

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesia reported a border clash with black nationalist guerrillas as an Anglican bishop called on Britain to send troops to hunt down the killers of 12 whites at a mission in another part of the country.

The military command said its troops exchanged rocket, mortar and small-arms fire with about 100 guerrillas Sunday morning on the border with Botswana, where guerrillas of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union (ZAPU) are based.

A communique said the firing stopped when Botswana forces intervened, and there were no Rhodesian casualties. Guerrilla casualties, if any, were not known.

The guerrillas are fighting a war against white control of Rhodesia. An estimated 1,000 of Nkomo's guerrillas operate in western Rhodesia from Zambia and Botswana, while more than 5,000 insurgents of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) based in Mozambique are fighting in eastern Rhodesia.

Mugabe's men were blamed by the Rhodesian military command for Friday's slayings at an eastern mission of seven British missionaries and five children including a three-week-old girl.

Mugabe, in a broadcast from the Mozambique capital of Maputo, denied his guerrillas were responsible. Instead, he blamed the Rhodesian army's white-led mainly-black Selous Scouts, a tracker unit previously accused by the guerrillas of most atrocities against civilians. He said the missionaries were slain to divert attention from two reported Rhodesian raids into Mozambique last Thursday.

The victims of the most savage attack in the war against vulnerable missions were bludgeoned and bayonetted to death. Two white adults survived: one a woman who was in critical condition in a Salisbury hospital, the other a man who was undetected by the killers.

Rebellion Fells Yemeni Chief

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Salim Robaye Ali resigned as president of South Yemen today after army and air force units rebelled in that country, the only Marxist-governed republic in the oil-rich Arabian Peninsula, the Iraqi news agency reported.

The news agency said in a dispatch from the South Yemeni capital of Aden that the central committee of the National Front, the country's hard-line, pro-Soviet ruling body, accepted Ali's resignation and stripped him of all other posts.

It said he resigned after a day-long bombardment of the presidential palace in Aden.

150 N-ARRESTS

Times News Services

At least 150 anti-nuclear demonstrators were arrested Sunday night after they occupied the construction site of two nuclear power plants in Satsop, Wash., the Grays Harbor County sheriff's office reported.

The demonstrators approached the 275-acre Washington Public Power Supply System (WPPSS) site from four directions.

No injuries or violence was reported, although some demonstrators went limp and had to be dragged to buses.

In the eastern U.S., the focus of the anti-nuclear movement shifted today from the construction site of the $2.3 billion Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant to government hearings on the environmental safety of the 2,300 megawatt plant.

At least 10,000 foes of nuclear power rallied at Seabrook Sunday in a demonstration organizers said would gain the attention of the nuclear industry.

BANK STRIKES POSSIBLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the United Bank Workers union employed at five British Columbia branches of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce decided Sunday to hold strike votes within two weeks.

The federal labor department recently ruled that contract disputes with three banks, including the Commerce, must go to conciliation.

UBW president Charlotte Johnston said she expected the conciliation attempts to fail, leaving the union in a legal position to strike.

Johnston said strike action would be taken against the Commerce because it had been the slowest.

The five branches involved are in Ganges in the Gulf Islands, Port McNeil on Vancouver Island as well as Gibsons Landing, Mission and Langley near Vancouver.

Tanker Blaze Out of Control

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 784-foot Liberian-registered tanker with 35 crew members aboard caught fire today in the Gulf of Mexico and asked for emergency assistance to help control the blaze, the Coast Guard reported.

The ship, the Amoco Texas City, was located about 210 miles southwest of New Orleans.

A nearby vessel rushed to the scene. The Coast Guard dispatched a plane from Corpus Christi, Texas, and a helicopter from New Orleans.

Coast Guard spokesman Bob Baeten said the crew members were reported safe, but the fire was out of control and the engine room was filled with smoke.

"They can't activate their foam system," said Baeten. "There's a very high temperature in the engine room. They can't get down to it."

The first report of trouble was received at 8:40 a.m. but the seriousness of the problem was not immediately apparent.

"At first they didn't request any assistance and now they do," Baeten said. "They requested a tug or some vessel in the area that has foam capabilities to fight the fire."

The ship sent a radio message about 10:30 a.m. saying it would not be transmitting further information, "apparently because they want to concentrate their efforts on getting the fire out," Baeten said.

The vessel, which was owned by Amoco Transport Co., had unloaded its cargo in Lake Charles, La., several days earlier, Baeten said.

BENGALI AVENGED

LONDON (AP) — Gangs of whites and Bengalis battled Sunday in London's tough East End after a Bengali tailor suffered a fatal heart attack during a robbery, police reported.

They said several persons were injured and eight were arrested in the fighting in an the area where thousands of immigrants from Bangladesh have settled.

A spokesman said the tailor was attacked by three whites early Sunday and died later of a heart attack.

Racial clashes occurred in the Bengali district of Brick Lane a week ago when 200 whites rampaged through the area beating bystanders and smashing Bengali shop windows.

Bomb Blast Ruins Art Works

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — A powerful bomb planted behind a statue exploded early today in the Palace of Versailles, wrecking three rooms of Napoleonic art, damaging seven others and slightly injuring a guard.

There were no reports of damage to the Hall of Mirrors, where the First World War treaty was signed, or to the royal apartments, the opera house and the chapel that are the chief tourist attractions in the vast 17th-century palace 20 kilometres southwest of Paris.

The Palace of Versailles was built between 1661 and 1682 for King Louis XIV, the "Sun King." For more than 100 years, until the French Revolution, Versailles was the seat of government of France as well as the home of the royal court.

The furnishings of the palace were dispersed and destroyed or sold during the French Revolution, but in recent years extensive restoration has been under way.

Three militant groups — two leftist and one Breton separatist — claimed responsibility for setting the bomb. But police gave little credence to any of the claims.

Seven hours after the 2 a.m. bomb explosion, police were tipped that another bomb was ready to go off in one of the two Trianon palaces in the palace park. Bomb experts searched both the Grand Trianon and the Petit Trianon, and some art works were removed, but the tip apparently was a hoax.

The explosion occurred in the Midi Wing of the main palace, to the left of the front entrance, and wrecked the three-room Empire Suite on the ground floor which was opened to the public May 16 by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

"Three of the paintings are reduced to fragments and are irreparable, including a very famous painting of Napoleon awarding the first Legion of Honor medals," Jean Dumont, the chief architect for the palace, told reporters.

"Other paintings are damaged but probably can be restored. The sculpted woodwork of the rooms has been shattered and there is at least six months' solid restoration work."

Dumont said the bomb blasted a hole — said by other sources to measure 10 by 12 feet — into the floor of the Gallery of Battles on the second floor. "But there does not appear to be other damage in the Gallery of Battles," he said.

No monetary estimate was available of the damage.

Officials said it was the first such attack they could recall on the palace.

NEIGHBORS SAVE WOMAN AND BABY

A woman and her baby daughter were saved by other tenants who broke down a door when fire engulfed their apartment at 12.35 a.m. Saturday.

Deputy Victoria fire chief Mike Belton said the fire was started by candles left burning in wall brackets, apparently after the occupants retired.

When other tenants at 815 Rupert Terrace detected smoke, they roused the occupants of several other suites by breaking down doors until they found the fire and doused it with a 1½-inch apartment hose.

Mrs. A. Cameron and her 10-months-old daughter Monique Elizabeth were led to safety through smoke-filled rooms.

Damage to the building is estimated at $2,000, with $500 to contents.

Davis Pleads Not Guilty

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — MLA Jack Davis (SC—North Vancouver-Seymour) pleaded not guilty to charges of theft and fraud when he appeared in provincial court today.

Davis, former transport minister, is charged with defrauding the government of $1,075 by misrepresenting the cost of his travel expenses and with theft of that amount by obtaining refunds for airline tickets.

Davis told the court he wished to be tried by judge without jury.

MLA Hearing Fizzles

The four Socred MLAs who are the subject of a special legislative committee to determine if they are sitting illegally, are still no wiser as to their status after today's events.

The committee was slated to meet at 9.30 a.m. but was unable to convene because of a lack of a quorum.

NDP committee members as they did last year, boycotted today's hearing because they feel it will be a whitewash. The committee has a Socred majority.

As well as the three NDP members, Education Minister Pat McGeer and Tory leader Vic Stephens failed to show at today's hearing.

Four lawyers, including one who made a special trip from Vancouver, wasted almost an hour waiting for the hearing to start.

Only one more member was needed for a quorum.

The committee was set up to determine whether Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt and Socred backbenchers George Kerster, (Coquitlam) and Len Bawtree (Shuswap) should have been disqualified because they accepted government funds.

The first three may have breached the Constitution Act for receiving expense payments while serving on a committee that was not officially recognized under the act's terms.

Bawtree later included himself with the group, saying he had received ranch improvement grants

Committee chairman Alan Williams said he would try and re-convence the meeting later today.

SEARCH ON FOR PLANE

The search continued today for a small plane which went missing Saturday on a flight from Sandspit on the Queen Charlotte Islands to Port Hardy on northern Vancouver Island.

Civilian aircraft joined two Labrador helicopters, two Buffalos and a Tracker from CFB Comox in the search.

A total of 10 planes took part in a search on Sunday.

Capt. David Nessman, a spokesman for Search and Rescue here, said Sunday that the plane left Sandspit with enough fuel for about 4½ hours flying.

He identified the three people aboard the plane as pilot Terry Hanford, 31, his wife Rose, 24, and Clay Thompson, 31, all of Sewell Inlet on the Queen Charlottes.

UVIC EXPANDING EVENING COURSES

Degree-completing evening courses are being offered to part-time students for the first time by the University of Victoria.

UVic has expanded its evening courses to allow third- and fourth-year students to complete degrees in any one of eight disciplines.

The study areas are biology, creative writing, English, geography, history, political science, psychology and art history.

More than 60 evening courses in these areas will be offered this year allowing a third-year student registering for six units a year to complete two full years of study over a five-year period.

The departments have committed themselves to the five-year plan to guarantee students a certain number of units each year, Says Dr. Larry Devlin, director of continuing education.

Students will know ahead of time the offering that will be available and they will be able to plan their programs and complete the requirements for a major, he said.

Students lacking the necessary requisites may qualify for admission to the program by completing first- and second-year courses through the ad hoc evening course offerings at UVic or Camosun College.

Canada Week church service drew crowd Sunday to legislature grounds

Canadians Set to Holler

It's Canada's 111th birthday this week and Canadians everywhere will join in the birthday celebrations with activities planned in more than 1,000 communities across the country.

A Canadian Press survey showed a host of festivities—ranging from skateboarding championships and midnight golf tournaments to folk festivals and dancing in the steets—are planned for Canada Week, which will culminate in a three-hour national television special broadcast July 1 from Parliament Hill.

The federal government is contributing $4.5 million in grants for the celebrations many of which are to be matched in municipal or provincial funds.

In British Columbia, Vancouver joggers will be able to run "from coast to coast" when areas representing each of the provinces are set up in the city's Stanley Park.

A four-day celebration in a downtown shopping plaza will feature singers, dancers and a 40-pound cake to be shared by spectators opening day.

A ladies bonspiel is scheduled for Drayton Valley, Alta.

In Thunder Bay, Ont., the whole community plans a giant picnic.

Toronto will host a 3-day Confederation conference at York University. The conference will be sponsored by the Council on Canadian Unity, a privately-financed national consortium based in Montreal.

Chinese Begin Tour

VANCOUVER (CP) — A delegation from the People's Republic of China arrived here Friday for a week-long tour of Canada, the first official visit to this country by a Chinese parliamentary delegation.

The seven-member delegation was welcomed at the airport by Senator Ray Perrault and representatives of the Chinese consulate in Victoria.

The delegation attended a dinner in Victoria Friday night with Lt.-Gov. Henry Bell-Irving and was to return here for a harbor tour today.

The group was also to visit the MacMillan Bloedel pulp and paper mill in Harmac before continuing on the tour which includes stops in Calgary, Banff, Alta., Edmonton, Ottawa, Gravenhurst, Ont., Niagara Falls, Ont., Hamilton and Toronto.

WOMAN DIES

POWELL RIVER (CP) — Margarite MacDonald, 62, died Friday after the pleasure boat she was in capsized in Malaspina Strait, about five kilometres north of here.

Police said the woman's husband survived the mishap.

Cause of death was believed to be drowning, but police said an autopsy will be held.

Please Support Me, Allmand Pleads

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Warren Allmand says consumers across the country have to give him more support if they want legislation in their interest passed through Parliament.

"I feel there's no conscious support in the country from any sector—from the media, from the opposition—and I include all the opposition—from the provinces, from the trade unions (or) from the churches," he said in an interview.

He said this lack of support has put him in the uncomfortable position of pushing laws his opponents say are not wanted.

"The opponents are saying 'why be paternalistic and give people what they don't want,' " he said.

Allmand said there appears to be little support for two pieces of legislation his department would like to see passed—the last part of a much-attacked competition bill and a consumer credit bill that died on the order paper last year which he plans to re-introduce in the fall.

Revised competition legislation has been promoted by the Liberal government as the best way to ensure consumers get a good deal in the market place. It would allow the government to control big-business mergers that can result in reduced competition and higher prices.

But each of several versions of the bill introduced since 1971 has been strongly attacked by business lobbies.

Portions of the bill were passed in 1975 but a revised version of the last part introduced last fall has not moved beyond first reading.

"It looks like the only ones pressing for the bill are me and my officials," he said.

13 Strikers Go Hungry

MONTREAL (CP) — Thirteen Radiomutuel employees launched a hunger strike Sunday to dramatize their 17-month struggle to get a first contract with the French-language radio network.

The Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU), which supports the strikers, said in a statement the hunger strike will take place simultaneously in four cities with Radiomutuel stations—Montreal, Quebec, Sherbrooke and Trois-Rivieres.

The employees have sent a telegram to federal Labor Minister John Munro asking him to refuse accreditation to a recently formed union of Radiomutuel employees currently on the job.

The 13 hunger strikers were among workers who walked out in January, 1977, after a bid to organize fellow workers. They have accused Radiomutuel of bargaining in bad faith and of trying to break their fledgling union.

The stations have continued operations with other personnel, and the CNTU claims the union formed by workers still on the job is a house union composed of strikebreakers.

Climb Abandoned

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — A nine-member Japanese expedition has abandoned efforts to conquer 22,-850-ft. tall Hishbiner Chish peak in the Karakoram range of the Hamalayas, a Japanese embassy official said Saturday.

Grave Concern Voiced Over Whales' Future

LONDON (CP) — Michael McGonigle, a University of British Columbia professor and spokesman for the Vancouver-based conservation group Greenpeace, called today for a new deal for the vanishing whale.

In a submission to the opening session of the 30th annual meeting of the International Whaling Commission (IWC), McGonigle said the IWC should reorganize itself to make its primary concern the conservation of whales.

Revision of the commission charter is on the week-long agenda and will be the topic of a preparatory conference set for next week in Copenhagen.

"Unfortunately, most of the changes proposed are very small," McGonigle said.

"A new convention should grow from a couple of very basic premises. First, it must be appreciated that economic exploitation is not the most important issue at stake.

"The convention must be primarily concerned with the long-term conservation of whales."

The second premise, he said, is that "the preservation of these animals is desired to ensure that they can be enjoyed for aesthetic, nonconsumptive reasons as well as the more traditional concerns."

"At present, the basic assumption is that the whale is simply a resource, a stock, to be harvested," McGonigle said.

"This is the consumer ethic that has dominated our economic life for the last 30 years. We must appreciate that we are now in a different world."

Delegates to the convention from 17 countries—including Canada—had to pass through lines of silent pickets with signs saying "Save the Whale."

Canada has been out of whaling since 1972 and, since then, has worked on the side of conservation.

McGonigle, in an interview, said, however that "the Canadian government is helping foreign whalers as they pursue the last of the world's remaining great whales."

Canada, "ignoring the advice of environmentalists and scientists from around the world," has "steadfastly supported the rights of the whaling industry," he said.

Rather than acting as a "peacemaker" between whaling countries and conservationists, McGonigle said, Canada should throw its weight onto the side of conservation.

Who's 'Muscling' Whom?

In the current hot debate over the new "slot machine" lottery proposed by the federal government, Ottawa is perhaps being a little hasty in ordering $23 million worth of equipment without tender so the game can get going by the fall, but for the provinces to jump on their horses and cry loudly about its dubious morality is a bit too thick to stomach.

The question of morality in lotteries was pushed rudely aside some years back, crushed in the stampede of ballyhoo by the federal and provincial governments, as they discovered this painless (and seemingly bottomless) source of revenue, the only tax which the citizens rush eagerly to pay.

Morality is a curious word to use in this controversy. Greed and envy would be much more appropriate terms. As Ottawa reporter Jim Robb wrote, the federal government and the provinces are "squabbling like bad-tempered Mafia capos over who is going to get the major share of the take from Canadians' gambling fever."

British Columbia Provincial Secretary Grace McCarthy has been particularly harsh in criticizing Ottawa for the new lottery, as well as for its refusal to vacate the field, as promised when Loto-Canada was devised to pay off the deficits of the Montreal Olympics.

Anyone giving serious thought to the subject would recognize in a second that in an expanding market like the Canadian lottery business has been in the 1970s, promotion of one lottery helps other lotteries too. Can the provinces say unequivocally that their lotteries would be doing as well as they are without Loto-Canada and its massive advertising and publicity attracted by the big draw that promises to make "instant millionaires" of Canadians?

No wonder the provinces are mad at Ottawa. They spied a fat revenue source — Loto-Canada has earned net revenue of $123.6 million since late 1976 — which they thought naively that Ottawa would give up graciously and kindly to them. The provinces claim Ottawa pledged to dismantle Loto-Canada by the time all the Olympic debts were paid off, by the end of 1979, but the federal government says only the agreement on sharing the revenue was up for renegotiation at that time.

The formula gives 82½ per cent of the take to pay the Olympic debt, 12½ per cent to the provinces on the basis of their ticket sales and five per cent to Sports and Fitness Minister Iona Campagnolo's department to promote recreation programs. But no one envisioned the wild success of lotteries in dour, phlegmatic Canada; we have become bettors almost as mad as the Australians. It is naive of the provinces to expect Ottawa blithely to give up such a good source of revenue. No government, once it has its hooks into a moneymaker like the lotteries, would give it up. Income tax was to be only a wartime expedient, historians with a sense of humor remind us from time to time. In the same vein the provinces might more realistically examine their own positions. Who's being greedy here, and who has all the virtue? Neither Ottawa nor the provinces have a monopoly on either commodity.

A Load of Guff

The grounding of the 100-foot schooner Freelance off Panama makes even landlubbers weep, but Dr. Phillip Ney talks a big load of guff with his demands that the Panamanian government should reimburse British Columbia for damage done to the boat by the Cuna Indians.

By casting much of the blame for the unfortunate accident onto the local natives, Ney sidesteps the most important point in the whole debacle: how did the Freelance pile up on the rocks in the first place? The Cuna natives certainly cannot be blamed for that.

What happened afterwards is regrettable, but it follows as night the day that if the boat was kept clear of the reefs around the San Blas Islands, then the looting and destruction could not have happened.

So as the Victorians who crewed her return home, they should be asked to account how, with radar, radio and other navigation equipment aboard, did she run aground only a few hundred yards from a small island?

Canadians Liked in Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Observation post Bastion is known as the flash point for conflict between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

That's because the most frequent cause of trouble for troops of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry keeping the peace at Op Bastion is flashing.

The United Nations troops between the former combatant cultures on Cyprus overlook a patch of scorched earth in the no man's land along which runs what is known as "the green line." At one side is a forward Turkish military position overlooking a Greek-Cypriot girls' school.

"Sometimes the Turks make obscene gestures or expose themselves towards the school," said Major Charles Jurek, commander of a company of the PPCLI. "But at recess the girls have been known to start it, too. If it goes too far, we have to bring out the line NCO to calm them down. Each Op has an act all of its own. This one is flashing."

Eyeball to Eyeball

At the Ormophita observation post in the suburbs, the Canadians can hear Turkish troops talking — that's not surprising, Turkish bunkers are actually built right underneath the UN post.

"It is literally eyeball to eyeball," said Major General James J. Quinn, the Irish commander of UN troops.

Near Maple One, a bullet scarred tower with a panoramic view of the divided city, is the warehouse of Dickran Ouzounian and Co. Ltd. "We usually catch one side or the other in there trying to do something at night," said Major Jurek.

The warehouse contains 56 brand new 1974 model Toyota cars and 2,000 unused bicycles. It was stranded in no man's land when the fighting ceased in 1974 after the Turkish invasion. In return for the best model Toyota in the store the Turkish commander reportedly offered to let the owner remove the rest of the vehicles. But he refused and the de luxe model stands, dusty but mint, on the ramp.

In the past three to four weeks there have been several incidents in which the UN force itself has been the target of abuse, mostly criticism in the local press and mostly petty stuff, but a slightly new tactic.

For example, a recent fire extinguished by UN forces with the aid of the Turkish Cypriots was good for two complaints. One was an innocent letter written by the local firefighting UN commander thanking the Turks for their help. An edited version in the local papers made it look as to if the UN itself was praising the Turks in general. The other complaint arose when the UN banned a Greek Cypriot photographer from the fire scene in accordance with the ceasefire agreement that cameras are not allowed in no man's land. But the result was a story of false arrest and brutality.

A Turkish information officer also contributed in an interview, gratuitously linking the presence of a Canadian officer of Armenian origin with the shooting of a Turkish Cypriot some two years ago.

The same official said that UN troops were allowed complete freedom of movement on the Turkish side. But the troops themselves said they are subject to a 6 p.m. curfew and are only allowed in on certain days.

Crossing the armed checkpoints to get to the Turkish side from the luxurious Ledra Palace hotel which is now a Canadian barracks and mess, to the posh suburbs of Nicosia, it was the Greeks who got niggly and demanded passports and a security check even though they had seen two journalists dropped a few yards down the road by a UN truck.

REFUGEES
. . . Greek Cypriots in tent city

The troops themselves react differently to their six month tour of duty in Cyprus, currently being done by the PPCLI from Calgary.

"We Canadians seem to have an uncanny knack of being able to pick the good from the bad," said RSM Bill Colborne of Roddington, Nfld., on his third Cyprus tour.

"It gets pretty frustrating sometimes not being able to do anything — just being able to get between them — but having no power under our mandate," said Sgt. Barry Blake of Vernon, also a third-timer. "We can't say who is right or wrong.

"I just wish someone could get them to sit down and talk over their differences," he said.

The sort of problem that sometimes comes up is often a question of property. A Greek Cypriot might own a piece of land, but a Turkish Cypriot owns the olive trees on it because of traditional property laws. If the olives are picked on the tree they go to the Turk. If they fall to the ground, the Greek claims them.

"A lot of people quote history at you," Quinn said. "But it all depends where you start."

Cyprus has a long and muddled history of invasions and cultural conflicts including the crusaders, the Venetians, the Genoese as well as Greeks, Turks and the British.

"But that's all water under the bridge. We have to deal with the situation now."

In doing so, Quinn has acquired an admiration for Canadian soldiers. "If there was a need for it, I would call on Canada for reinforcements," he said. "The Canadian soldier is the best adapted here. That is no reflection on the rest nor does it mean the Canadian is a softie — he could survive under great hardship."

"It's quite a bit different from the actual reason I wear a uniform," said RSM Colbourne. "We are an infantry battalion. But we enjoy peacekeeping — we really believe that."

Stones or Eggs

The Canadians have been here for 14 years. Until 1974 they were scattered across the island but after the Turkish invasion they manned and patrolled the buffer zone. It winds through Nicosia and across the top third of the island, 200 kilometres long.

"It's not any vested interest on the part of soldiers to be here," said Quinn. "We are soldiers, not politicians, we are just there because of some politicians."

Private David Hotchkiss of Niagara Falls is here for the first time and he likes it. "When you join the army one of the reasons is you expect to travel," he said. "And one of the places to travel is Cyprus."

Occasionally shots are heard by the UN troops. But there has been no serious outbreak of shooting since the 1974 ceasefire and no UN casualties in three years. Although there are two or three violations of the ceasefire reported each week they are very rarely against the other side. Often they are provocative behavior rather than violence.

Sometimes, when no one else is thought to be around, Greek and Turkish Cypriots will talk to each other about their wives or homes.

"But they also shout insults and even throw eggs at each other," Major Jurek said.

There is an old Cypriot proverb which goes: if the stone falls on the egg, alas for the egg; if the egg falls on the stone, alas for the egg.

That is the sadness of Cyprus.

"It is sad when you look at the fear and at what they have lost," said RSM Colbourne. "But what we are doing is keeping them safe and that's a pretty gratifying thing."

No Bargain

Re: Purchase of Freelance by the provincial government:

Every yachtsman knows that the purchase of a "bargain" boat in the Carribean, notwithstanding sailing her home through the Panama Canal and up the coast against prevailing wind and current, is a risky and, in the long run, usually quite costly business. It is all right for an individual to gamble his money that way but it should never be attempted by the provincial government preaching financial restraint at home.

Also, there is a problem with the delivery crew — who they were, whether a licensed delivery skipper was hired and why only three on a 100-foot schooner?

Surely a better approach could be either to purchase or order a similar size vessel in British Columbia where we have several able designers and boat builders. The vessel could be ordered only partly finished and then completed by the sailing enthusiasts to be enrolled in the proposed training program.

One cannot help wondering how many other "bargains" our able government has already attempted.—M.J. Jarecki, 548 Beach Drive.

Unsupported Theory

Mr. H. S. Thuillier's letter in your issue of June 19 (Not a Federation) makes me wonder if he has ever read the BNA Act, and even more so, whether he has studied the debates leading up to its introduction. His statement that "the Canadian form of government is a confederation of sovereign provinces" is simply not in accord with the facts.

At no time prior to 1867 were the provinces sovereign; they were then colonies of Great Britain and subject to the authority of its parliament. In the opening paragraph of the BNA Act, Canada is described as a "union," as in the American constitution, and to give the matter added emphasis it goes on to state "with a constitution similar in principle to the United Kingdom."

Sir John A. Macdonald, who surely knew something about our constitution, said, in making a comparison with the American document: "They declared by their constitution that each state was a sovereignty in itself, and that all powers incident to a sovereignty belonged to each state, except those powers which by the constitution were conferred upon the General Government and Congress. We have strengthened the general government. We have given the general legislature all the great subjects of legislation. We have conferred on them, not only specifically and in detail, all the powers that are incident to sovereignty."

If a more modern witness is wanted, I give you Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who put through the 1943 amendment, even though the legislature of Quebec passed a resolution of protest. He gave the following reasons for ignoring their objections:

"(1) The matter did not concern the Provincial legislature but was a matter for the Federal Parliament.

"(2) The theory that the British North America Act is a pact between the provinces, which cannot be amended in any particular without the prior consent of every province, does not appear to be supported either in history or in law."

Finally, attention should be drawn to the fact that previously many amendments to the BNA Act had been approved by the British Parliament even though the provinces, not only did not give their consent, they were never consulted. As a matter of interest three such amendments were put through on the authority of the Canadian government only, without reference even to its parliament.

I realize that many people accept the theory put forward by Mr. Thuillier simply because it has been repeated so often that it has come to pass for truth. I challenge him, or anyone else, to refute what has been quoted above. — F. L. P. Anderson, 409-2174 Cadboro Bay Road.

Taxes Up 36.5%

After reading the letters to the editor (Times, June 19) I would like to add my concern over increasing property taxes.

My property taxes (Langford) are up this year by $144.15, a whopping 36.45 per cent, with an out of pocket increase (after the homeowner grant) of $124.89.

This, I believe, is a bit heavy, even coming from the worst moneymongers in B.C.'s history. — D. N. Butrand, 2605 Wentwich Road.

Tsehum Marina

Thank you for giving prominence to the Tsehum Bay marina debate. We feel awfully helpless here against well-organized business interests, but the evidence of public concern is getting more impressive, as the article by Derek Sidenius makes clear (Marina Study — Birds Not Only Losers, June 19). This article comes at a good time, with the public hearings coming up June 27. No one around here wants more marinas in this bay; there are too many already. They provide few jobs for local people and they are wrecking the place not just for the birds but for the people who live here.

Our elected representatives are inclined to be fatalistic about the inevitability of these developments, if not surreptitiously promoting them themselves, but they can't ignore the rumblings of rebellion which are now being heard, and accurately reported in articles such as the one in question. — George Mailleu, Sidney.

Non-violence

Re: the Mayor of Saanich, Mel Couvelier's irresponsible remarks about Trisha MaryMoon's supposedly "low cut" blouse as a supposed reason for Saanich council's refusal to support Rape Relief:

Obviously Rape Relief serves two most important and vital needs in our community. Being a 24-hour crisis line for comfort and for legal and medical help to victims of rape is one; to educate young people in the schools as to the nature of violence and rape is the other. Who would want to deny or ignore these needs?

Politicians are too often noted for their low remarks about others. Some of them are noted for not much else, and these are the types to whom we give the power on our money to cause or ameliorate our sufferings. And I mean sufferings. When one woman is raped she suffers. So do all women. So do all men who care. And all children. As in war, and all other violence, especially do the children suffer.

The rapist has probably suffered all his life from the violence commercially pushed in our society. So what can we expect and why do we put up with such politicians?

Meanwhile, if we really wish to cultivate the young of our species into becoming the intrepid, forthright and nonviolent people of tomorrow, the kind of people who know how to co-operate with each other in their world, then no old timer will be given the power by us to try to prevent the Trisha Mary Moons and her male counterparts from becoming leaders in education. Then both rape and war will be unthinkable. Won't such a change of attitude be nice? Such a world cannot come too soon for these two old-timers. — Muriel and Ben Gough-Azmier, 1821 Fern Street.

Oil at Bamberton?

Regarding the insanity of a fuel tank farm at Bamberton, I would like to add my few words of opposition.

Wherever there is oil storage or transportation, there are leaks and danger of spills, but the leakage in everyday usage, without any spectacular accident, causes constant pollution.

Our governments cannot possibly be ignorant of the ever-increasing pollution from oil; oxygen in the oceans being depleted by the destruction of plankton and microscopic life, from which the oxygen comes; the fine film of oil over the oceans; the destruction of estuaries, the nurseries of the sea, as Wesley Morse points out in his excellent book The Frail Ocean.

If support of such proposals is not born of ignorance, then why do governments continue to allow our lives and the lives of all living things to be endangered? Conservation by everyone, including industry and governments, and the development of solar energy, would reduce the hazard very markedly.

And why is a collection of hideous tanks, an eyesore for miles around, called a "farm"? — Eve Smith, R.R. 1, Port Washington, South Pender Island.

Canada Does Little to Save Whales

By R. MICHAEL McGONIGLE

(McGonigle is a Research Fellow at the Institute of International Relations at the University of British Columbia and will be an observer at the current International Whaling Commission meeting in London.)

With quiet determination, the Canadian government is helping foreign whalers as they pursue the last of the world's remaining great whales. Ignoring the advice of environmentalists and scientists from around the world, Canada has steadfastly supported the "rights" of the whaling industry.

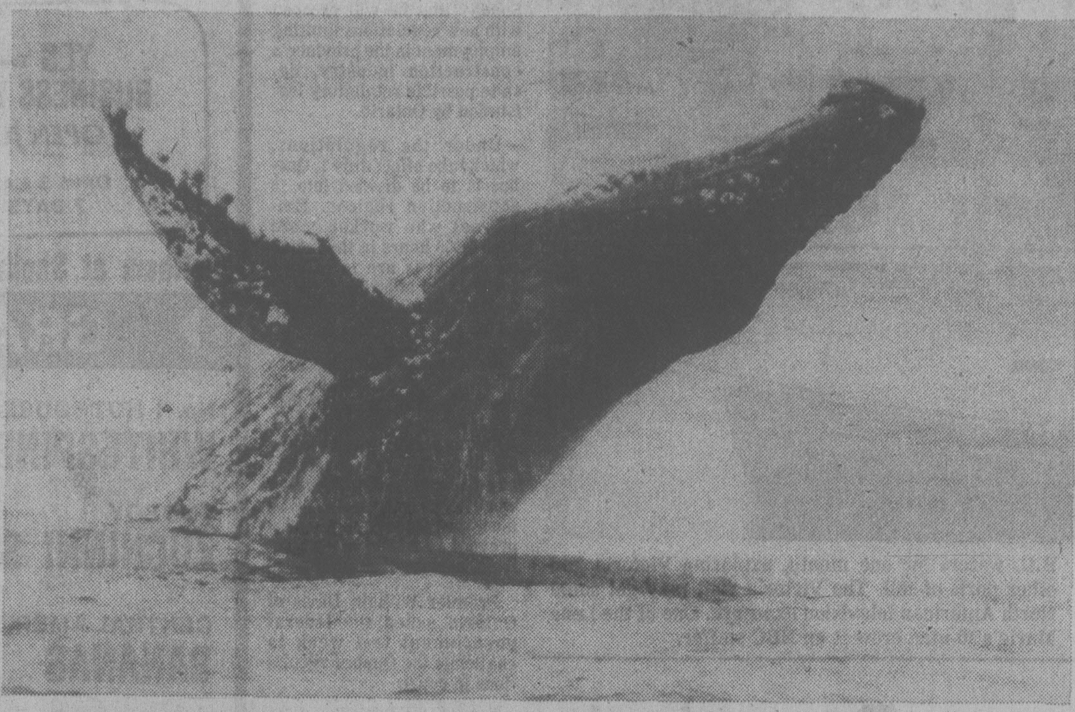
This week, as the International Whaling Commission begins its annual ritual of setting new whale quotas, the "rights" of these whalers are again under attack. Where will Ottawa stand?

There is no doubt that the world's whales are endangered. All of the large, commercially desirable "meat" whales — the blue, right, bowhead and fin — are severely depleted. The blue whale, the largest animal ever to inhabit the planet, once numbered in the hundreds of thousands. Now, after years of uncontrolled slaughter, its population may be as low as 2,000. Similarly, the famous singing humpback whale has been reduced to a few thousand. In some oceans, resident whale populations are already extinct.

This tragic devastation makes no sense ecologically — but it has been good economics. Whales reproduce slowly and are not, therefore, a profitable sustainable resource. Instead, fast-money operators took as many as they could as fast as they could. The profits were invested elsewhere (into supertankers, for instance). This was a logical but grotesquely callous undertaking and it has been aptly decried as the "economics of extinction": private profit at planetary expense.

This painful litany of systematic slaughter has been carried out under the auspices of the International Whaling Commission. This is truly a whaling commission. Its charter contains only passing reference to conservation, focussing instead on the "orderly development of the whaling industry" and the "optimum utilization" of the whale "resource." In setting quotas, the charter explicitly requires that the organization "take into consideration the interests of the consumers of whale products and the whaling industry." The whales don't stand a chance.

With such a perspective, it is not surprising that the quotas set are almost totally unreliable and unsafe. The data are available only from the whaling industry — not the most trustworthy of sources. As a result, a senior U.S. whale scientist has recently complained that the information for quota-setting is "totally unreliable . . . totally inadequate."



Bursting from sea, a humpback whale rolls over in midair so its back will absorb impact of landing

Quotas are supposed to be scientifically based but are produced under such continuous political pressure and in such a short time that the results are, at best, guesses. Elaborate models for "harvesting" are constructed, yet estimates of whale populations vary by many hundred per cent from one observer to the next.

In fact, the quotas are no control at all. The commission has continually set next year's catch. In doing so, it has seemed to be exercising control when it was merely providing a convenient cover for what the industry could get anyway. As the catches dropped, the quotas fell behind them.

In any eevent, beyond this the commission has no powers. Its quotas are not binding (any member can "object" and not be bound by them) and there is no reliable enforcement for those who do accept them. For example, in its much-heralded new observer scheme, only Russians may police Japanese whaling operations, and only Japanese, Russian operations.

With these small numbers and the ocean's vast scope, there is great doubt whether the whales can survive for the many centuries it would take for their numbers to rebuild. This uncertainty grows daily as distant-water fisheries fleets deplete their food sources worldwide. Not content with shooting them from above, we are beginning to starve them from below.

But the hunt goes on and Canada supports it. In the face of such a critical situation, only a moratorium on all commercial whaling will provide the protection so urgently needed. This moratorium was unanimously accepted by the 1972 United Nations Stockholm Conference on the Human Environment. That action prompted the government to end whaling at home, but when the proposal was put before the whaling commission a few weeks later, Canada refused to support it and it was defeated.

This opposition persists. To the consternation of U.S. officials, our government last year effectively blocked a plan by the United States to reintrodce the moratorium at a meeting of the United Nations Environment Program.

At the commission itself, our government's policies are no more enlightened. The hopeless poverty of Canada's attitude was vividly demonstrated in a recent incident that will go down as one of the most shameful in the entire history of the commission.

Last June, the commission met in Canberra, Australia. At that meeting it was learned that the Japanese were using sonar to hunt sperm whales in the North Pacific. The effect of this on increased efficiency meant that previous population estimates had to be revised drastically downward. As a result, the quota was slashed from 7,200 to 763.

For the first time in its history, the commission seemed to be asserting real control. The effect of its action would have rendered any further whaling in the area completely uneconomical. The Japanese delegation was furious and demanded a special meeting to "reconsider" the decision.

In December the commission dutifully reconvened in Tokyo. Japan now introduced "new data" and the quota was re-revised — 763 to 6,444.

Scientists denounced the new decision. One of the world's foremost authorities on marine mammals, Dr. Sidney Holt of the UN Food and Agricultural Organization, publicly comdemned the new quota: "The results are not credible. The complex calculations that have been made are incomplete in that (some) estimates and assumptions have not been revealed and they obscure the fact that crucial parameters have been guessed and not estimated."

Canada proposed that the new quota be accepted and the delegation voted for it.

The whaling industry was eminently satisfied. Every year in the past, catches of these whales had fallen far below the quotas, sometimes by many thousands of whales. The 1977 quota of 7,200 had not nearly been achieved, yet the whalers had been given a new quota of 6,444, a quota which is again beyond their reach. Indeed, with two large boats and an ABC-TV helicopter seaching for whales, Canada's Greenpeace Foundation sighted only 19 whales over many thousands of miles during the summer of 1977. Eight of these 19 were slaughtered by the Russian fleet.

Must this continue? Canada now has a new whaling commissioner, Bob Applebaum. He has a unique opportunity to develop new constructive government policies. For the first time in five years, the moratorium is on the agenda. This year, too, a new issue has been introduced: "The ethics of killing cetaceans" (whales and dolphins).

This may be the ultimate issue. Our government and its commissioner must realize that the whale is not just another economic resource to be mismanaged for some foreign profiteers. These are creatures, as one U.S. neurologist has noted, with "a (mental) capacity approaching that of the primates, including man." A Russian scientist has agreed: "The sperm whale brain structure is such that this can be said to be a 'thinking' animal capable of displaying high intellectual abilities."

But these animals are destined for an unpleasant death at the end of a grenade-tipped harpoon. The consumption of beef would have stopped long ago if the only way to obtain it had been to shoot a steer with an arrow and then drag it, kicking and screaming, across hundreds of metres of open field. Does the whale at sea deserve less?

Interestingly, the sperm whale is not even usable as human food. Being at the top of the marine food chain, they are so saturated with mercury that they are unsafe for human consumption. Their destiny? Petfood, cosmetics and lubricating oil.

Canada must finally oppose this unnecessary and inhumane activity. It must recognize the immorality of killing cetaceans and press for a moratorium. It must demand an end to science being used as a tool of politics. It must insist that the secret meetings of the commission be opened to scrutiny by the press and public.

This year presents another unique opportunity. The charter of the commission is to be rewritten. With a conservationist perspective, Mr. Applebaum could take an historic lead and turn a whaling commission into a conservation commission. If the environmentalist image that Canada has so carefully fostered for itself at the Law of the Sea Conference is not to be tarnished, nothing less will do.

The vast majority of Canadians clearly oppose the merciless slaughter of these calm and magnificent creatures. The government is well aware of this opposition and it must respond.

As Herman Melville pleaded so sadly in Moby Dick: "The moot point is whether Leviathan can long endure so wide a chase and so remorseless a havoc; whether he must not at last be exterminated from the waters, and the last whale, like the last man, smoke his last pipe, and then himself evaporate in the final puff."

It's More Fun Being Conservative

By ROBERT FULFORD
Toronto Star

Being a conservative is a lot more fun than being a liberal or a socialist, and the National Review proves it. An arch-conservative American fortnightly, the National Review is one of my favorite magazines, even though — or perhaps because — I disagree with nearly every word it contains. Its editor, William F. Buckley Jr., is a livelier man than almost anyone I agree with.

There is no reason to wonder why most good humorists are life-long conservatives, like H. L. Mencken, or end up as conservatives in old age, like Malcolm Muggeridge. The reason is that conservatives are by definition always out of office.

There is no such thing as a conservative government, only a conservative opposition. Humorists prefer to be in opposition, and as conservatives they are fated always to remain there.

When a conservative gets anywhere near being in office, he turns into a liberal — or something so like a liberal as to make no difference. He listens to the voice of the voters, most of whom are liberal most of the time by instinct. He makes compromises, quickly.

Buckley's magazine in one issue contains more interesting paragraphs than you can find in six issues each of the New Repbulic, Canadian Forum, Nation, Dissent, Canadian Dimension or New York Times Magazine. The National Review's every page is irreverent. Its editorials, unlike almost all other editorials, are funny and pointed.

The reason is that Buckley and his cohorts take responsibility for almost nothing. There is no act of the American Congress for which they feel they must answer. There are almost no senators they must treat tenderly (one exception was Buckley's brother, James, when he was junior senator from New York). The National Review finds the ideas of most politicians largely pitiful.

We liberals, by comparison, are at an extreme disadvantage. Most of the time the people in power are our friends — or, at least persons we have at times admired, even supported. On occasion the electorate has taken our advice, a disservice it has seldom done to conservatives. We feel responsible, therefore, for the actions of those we praised when they were out of office. Even though we vigorously criticize someone like Trudeau, James Callaghan or Jimmy Carter, we keep a tight rein on our sarcasm.

BUCKLEY . . . lively.

We can't let loose the full force of our scorn because we know that only a short distance separates their opinions from ours. In office, we realize, we might do much as they do. In current jargon, we identify with them — in a way that Buckley, for example, has never in his life identified with an American president, or Peter Worthington of the Toronto Sun has never identified with a prime minister or a premier.

Sweet are the uses of irresponsibility. Richard Needham of The Globe and Mail, a rank conservative, cackles with joy as he reads about crime, poverty, indolence, bureaucratic stupidity and other signs of the breakdown of democracy. He saw it all coming and he loves to tell us so. Whereas liberals, who didn't foresee and who advocated policies that various governments have used (with limited success), are in no position to gloat. They can only shake their heads slowly, from side to side, in sorrow — never an amusing activity.

Consider the National Review's attitude to a minor domestic issue in the United States. An editorial in the last issue says: "There is one small but important symbolic contribution the Council on Wage and Price Stability could make to the fight against inflation — namely, to recommend the immediate abolition of the Council on Wage and Price Stability."

This may or may not be a good idea. I'll never know. But two things are clear. One, it's an amusing idea. Two, it's something no liberal would ever suggest. A liberal would propose the reform of the council. That's the liberal, optimistic view: government institutions can function efficiently. Whereas the conservative view is: Tear it down! This has a much more attractive ring to it. It appeals not only to conservatives but to the anarchist who lives somewhere deep within each of us.

The National Review is of course predictable — it hates taxes except when they go for armaments, in which case it loves them — and it is almost never right about anything except its view that the world is going to hell in a handbasket. Still, I'd never be without it. Every good Christian should read Voltaire to prove that it's possible to look the devil in the eye and still retain the faith. In the same spirit, I read the National Review and remain despite it all a liberal — nervous in the faith, impressed by the devil's logic, but a liberal believer all the same.

PQ Labor Curbs Still Alive

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Marc Johnson reaffirmed Sunday that he will proceed with new regulations limiting employment in the province's construction industry, despite possible retaliatory legislation by Ontario.

Under the regulations, which take effect July 1, Quebec is to be divided into 13 construction regions. Employees who worked more than 1,000 hours in the industry last year are to receive certificates allowing them to work within their specific regions.

Contractors will have to hire workers from within the region, unless all local workers have already been hired. Although the government says the law is intended to regulate the construction work force within the province, the regulations will also prevent residents of Ontario from working in Quebec.

Premier William Davis of Ontario asked the federal government last week to challenge the Quebec regulations in court.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Thursday he has asked the federal justice department for an opinion on whether to submit the dispute to the Supreme Court of Canada.

6 Women Skip Pen

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — Six women escaped from the Pine Grove Correctional Centre early today.

RCMP said two matrons were overpowered in the escape by Shirley Ann Dudenas, 21, Sandra Paquachon, 18, Janice Johns, 19, Valerie Sayer, 19, Joyce Manaquating, 22, and Arlene Cote, 20.

Police said none of the women is considered dangerous.

SKATEBOARD FINALS SET

WEST VANCOUVER (CP) — Two North Vancouver teen-agers will represent British Columbia in the national skateboard finals Friday in Ottawa after winning the B.C. amateur skateboard competition here Sunday.

Scott Osborne and Kelly Greenberg, both 14, beat 18 other contestants to advance to the finals.

U.S. Group Reported Climbing Border Peak

NEW DELHI (AP) — U.S. and Indian officials Sunday disclosed that a 10-member U.S. expedition is climbing Nanda Devi, the Himalayan peak near the Chinese border where an Indian-U.S. team lost a nuclear-powered spy probe 13 years ago.

The U.S. expedition went unnoticed until Indian newspaper reports Sunday of the death of its Indian liaison officer, S. S. Dhillon. They said he was killed in a fall at the 18,000-foot level of the 25,645-foot peak in the northern Indian state of Uttar Pradesh.

The Indian Mountaineering Federation, which clears foreign expeditions into the Himalayas, said there was no secrecy about the U.S. effort.

A spokesman said the expedition obtained clearance long before the political flap that erupted in April over the lost nuclear device.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in New Delhi described the latest climb as a "routine, normal mountaineering expedition." He said the embassy knew little about the climbers.

The U.S. magazine Outside caused a stir in Indian-U.S. relations when it reported earlier this year that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had planted the device on Nanda Devi — apparently without Indian knowledge — to monitor Chinese missile development.

Prime Minister Morarji Desai defused the issue when he told Parliament on April 17 that the Indian government was aware of the device and had helped plant it.

Desai, who was not in office at the time, said the two countries had decided "at the highest levels" in 1964 to plant such devices and there was very little danger.

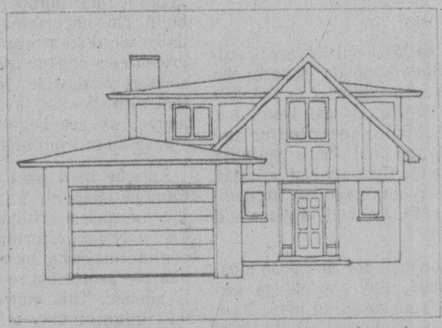
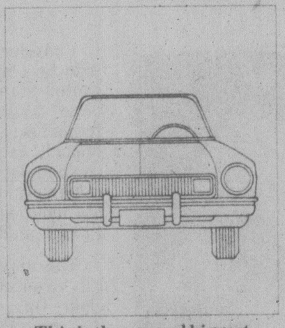
THE SECOND BIGGEST PURCHASE YOU MAY EVER MAKE SHOULDN'T BE SECOND BEST.



This is the biggest purchase most people make.



This is the second biggest.

The two biggest purchases most people ever make in life are a house and a car.

Most people are fairly diligent and careful when choosing a house. They look around, compare several houses, evaluate their needs and then make a decision.

Unfortunately, this is not always the case with new car buyers. Often it is a spur-of-the-moment, emotional decision with all too little thought given. And no comparisons made. A Honda Civic invites comparison. Compare a Civic's drive train. It is front wheel drive with the motor mounted transversely over the wheels. The front wheel drive not only improves traction during Canadian winters, but it also makes the car more fun to drive.

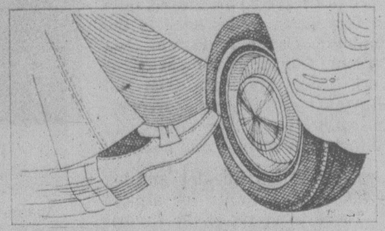
Compare a Civic's suspension. You'll find that while many cars come with a solid rear axle, a Civic comes with independent McPherson strut suspension on all four wheels. This suspension is relatively expensive and rare on an inexpensive car. But it's worth every penny for its cushioning ride and road holding qualities.

Compare Civic's interior room. While it may look like a tidy little package on the outside you'll find that inside there is much more room than you expect.

The reason is the trapezoidal shape that Honda first successfully introduced to Canada. It maximizes the interior space while minimizing the exterior space. Combine the trapezoidal shape with a wide track and a low centre of gravity and you'll find a Civic is also extremely stable on the highway. Check Civic's list of standard features. Self adjusting, power assisted front disc brakes, rack and pinion steering, 4-speed transmission, carpeting, tinted glass, rear window defroster and fully reclining bucket seats are all included.

Then check and compare the quality and finish of the car. Look at the seams and panels to see how well they are fitted and joined. Check the moulding that is used to prevent drips and drafts. See how the carpeting is fitted. Check the detailing of the dash. The closer you inspect a Civic the closer you are to becoming a Civic owner.

And above all, do something that you can't do when you're buying a house–try it out. Take it for a test drive. You'll soon see why in just four short years Honda Civic has become the best selling small car* in Canada.



If you choose a new car by just kicking the tires, then you may end up kicking yourself.

LAND OFFERED FOR BIRD USE

A 12-acre greenbelt peninsula streching between Tsehum Inlet and Blue Heron Basin has been offered as a gift to North Saanich by Sealand owner Bob Wright.

Wright said today he will give the municipality 12 acres and a chance to buy an additional 15 acres next to Blue Heron Bay for use as a bird sanctuary if he is allowed to develop his remaining 10 acres.

Known as Bosun's Marina, the 37-acre property forms a peninsula surrounded by tidal waters of Tsehum Inlet and Blue Heron Basin.

Wright wants to upgrade and expand his 350-boat marina to include another 600 berths.

A bird sanctuary established in 1931 by the federal government only applies to the waters of Shoal Harbor, not the land.

The gift is meant to satisfy neighbors and environmentalists concerned that his proposed marina expansion and housing development would be detrimental to the area's bird population, particularly the Great Blue Heron.

"I'm trying to be a good corporate neighbor by offering 12 of the 27 acres as a gift to the municipality." Wright said.

Another 36 acres of mudflats surrounding the peninsula would be preserved as a wildlife habitat as a result of the donation, Wright said.

Under the proposal, the municipality would be given three years to come up with the money to purchase the additional 15 acres at market value. If it decided not to purchase, Wright would be allowed to go ahead with a proposed residential development.

Vice-Principals in Debate

A debate on the status of vice-principals scheduled to take place tonight at a Greater Victoria school board meeting will be spiced by the opinions of the vice-principals themselves.

Trustees will examine a report by Superindendent Allan Stables that recommends vice-principalships be considered training positions only.

Stables says incumbents should be sent back to the teaching ranks after seven years if they fail to win promotions.

Tacked onto his report will be a submission from the vice-principals that argues the job is a career position.

The brief, endorsed by the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers Federation, contains a series of recommendations that modify the complete housecleaning approach taken by Stables in his report.

Among other things, the brief suggests compentent vice-principals stay in their positions and be subjected to a continuous evaluation process by the principals.

Russia Issues Arms Warning

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev says the United States is trying "to play the Chinese card" against Moscow but warns the policy is short-sighted and could have dangerous consequences.

Brezhnev, speaking in Minsk Sunday, also accused the Western powers of having no real interest in disarmament.

The Soviet leader travelled to Minsk by overnight train to award the city the Order of Lenin and Gold Star Medal belatedly marking the 30th anniversary of its Second World War liberation.

His speech broke no new ground and was apparently aimed at buttressing Moscow's established foreign policy.

Brezhnev attacked Western leaders for adopting a new long-term arms program at a NATO meeting in Washington that coincided with the U.N. General Assembly's special session on disarmament.

This, he said, "showed that the leaders of a number of big NATO countries, especially of the U.S.A., evidently do not wish to take a constructive approach to the solution of disarmament problems."

Brezhnev also pressed the new Soviet proposal on force reductions in central Europe, saying it was "a reasonable, realistic compromise" that went more than halfway toward NATO.

The Russians said they were prepared to withdraw three divisions together with military equipment, including about 1,000 tanks, within a year.

Nazis Rally but Nobody Comes

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Nazis held another rally Sunday, but nobody came.

Frank Collin's band assembled under heavy police protection at its South Side headquarters, bracing for an expected confrontation with the militant Jewish Defence League. None showed.

The brown-shirted Collin stood outside the door to his headquarters, scratching his balding head.

Twenty miles away in the village of Skokie, about 300 Jews and Christians gathered to pay tribute to Nazi victims of the Second World War. The service in the Niles Township Congregation synagogue might have been different.

Collin's Nazis had threatened to demonstrate in front of the Skokie village hall on Sunday, and up to 50,000 counter-demonstrators were expected to confront them. But Collin cancelled the demonstration last week in favor of a July 9 march in Chicago's Marquette Park.

The Nazis, protected by a ruling from the U.S. Supreme Court, held only a 10-minute rally outside a federal office building in Chicago's Loop Saturday. But 3,000 angry demonstrators drowned out the words spoken at the rally, shouting "Death, death, death to the Nazis," and pelting the brownshirts with eggs and other debris. Thirteen persons were arrested, none of them Nazis.

On Sunday, Collin called Saturday's rally a "great success."

"The whole thrust of our operation was to draw our enemies out in the open. We let the people see who our enemies are," he said.

In Skokie, Mayor Albert Smith proclaimed Sunday "a beautiful day for Skokie.

"From all over the world, neo-Nazis are coming out of the woodwork," Smith told the small assembly. He thanked about 150 people who came from as far away as California and New York for helping "push back into the grave bigotry and hate."

"We are all survivors, whether we were caught in that Holocaust or not," said Rabbi Maurice Lamm of Los Angeles. "We've come to Skokie to challenge evil, to keep American democracy impregnable. We must show the world we will damn every horrible demonstration of the Nazi beast in Skokie or wherever else."

U.S. Halts Shipment Of Bomb Parts to Chile

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The United States has halted the shipment of 11 tons of bomb parts to Chile while the Carter administration assesses exports of military supplies to the South American country, a U.S. state department spokesman said Sunday.

The spokesman said the order to hold up the shipments came because the United States is concerned about sending the military parts to Chile "in view of recent developments in our relations with Chile . . ."

He declined to elaborate on the developments.

On Friday the United States recalled its ambassador to Chile because it was dissatisfied with Chilean cooperation in investigating the murder of former Chilean ambassador Orlando Letelier.

The state department spokesman said the bomb fin assemblies affected by the decision were considered part of "pipeline" shipments — that is, shipments of military goods not covered by a general U.S. ban on sales of military goods to Chile.

That general ban went into effect in 1976, the same year that Letelier, an outspoken critic of the military government in Santiago, was killed after a bomb attached to his car exploded near Washington's embassy row area.

The bomb fin assemblies were originally requested by Chile in 1974 and were covered by contracts signed before the general ban took effect, the state department spokesman said Sunday.

In a statement Friday announcing that Ambassador George Landau was being recalled "for consultations," the state department said Chilean authorities had not been co-operating with the U.S. justice department investigation of Letelier's death.

Earlier this year, U.S.-born Michael Vernon Townley was deported from Chile and brought to Washington for questioning in the matter.

New Prison Boss Tough but Compassionate

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A former commando in the Danish underground during the Second World War and 20-year veteran of the provincial corrections service today took charge of the Vancouver Island Regional Corrections Centre on Wilkinson Road.

David Schultz replaces Harry Bacon, who has been acting director of the centre since director Hal McGillivray was promoted last year to a senior management post in the Vancouver Island region.

Schultz, 53, comes to Wilkinson Road after three years as principal officer of the notorious East Wing at Oakalla, a maximum security area set aside for hard-rock sentenced inmates and persons waiting trail on serious crimes.

There, Schultz had 220 inmates under his charge; at Wilkinson Road, he'll have 60 to 80, with roughly the same mix of sentenced and remand prisoners.

Schultz referred to the past three years as the happiest and most productive he has spent so far in the service. Why? Because of the challenges.

Schultz relishes challenge and that's what "Wilkie" is. Corrections officials have repeatedly said the Edwardian structure, built 65 years ago as an asylum for the criminally insane, is totally inadequate as a prison by modern standards.

Even Schultz, who last set foot inside the building in 1965, says he'll be surprised if the facilities meet little more than the minimum standards set by the United Nations charter on treatment of prisoners.

While there's nothing Schultz can do about the physical deficiencies of the building — that's a political decision — he aims to run a tight ship.

He emphasizes good communications between staff and inmates, consistency and compassion. His priorities are to meet the needs of the inmates within the mandate he's been given, and try to ensure they leave the institution in a better frame of mind than when they entered.

He doesn't believe in rehabilitation programs as such. Rehabilitation has to come from within a person, he said.

Blunt and outspoken, Schultz projects an image of a tough disciplinarian who expects to get as much in return as he's prepared to give — which is his all.

He lets you know precisely where you stand with him.

He doesn't care much for the news media, calls reporters "jackals" and, wagging his finger, threatens if you cross him once you'll never have his cooperation again.

His opinion of social workers is even harsher.

But Schultz isn't out to make friends.

"It doesn't matter what people think about me," he said. "It's what I accomplish that counts.

"Deep down everyone wants to be loved. But in this business, it's impossible."

Essentially Schultz comes across as a man's man, a product of the war in Europe. Somehow he managed to survive the holocaust, and while he's reticent about those nightmarish experiences, you get the feeling when he speaks they're what shaped him into what he is today.

Born in Riga, Latvia, Schultz received his early education at a German school in Estonia where his father served with the Danish foreign service.

He was in Copenhagen aiming for a career in business management when the war broke out.

He joined the Danish resistance movement and throughout the war darted between Sweden and Denmark carrying out clandestine missions. He was taught commando skills at a secret war-time training camp in central Sweden.

In 1943, after a harrowing escape from Denmark, he was picked up by Swedish authorities and spent five or six weeks in a prison where he was grilled and beaten.

They were at the point of deporting him back to Denmark where he faced certain death when they suddenly decided to release him.

The experience was a lesson in survival. He noticed those who didn't make it were those who caved in or gave up. He did neither. He kept his body active. He forced himself to do mental exercises. He learned how to withstand pain. Mostly, it was discipline that saved him, and he's never forgotten.

After the war Schultz worked as a ship's chandler in Copenhagen and in 1951 he immigrated to Canada, settling in North Vancouver.

He worked on tugs, got laboring jobs and started his own trucking business. In 1958 he saw an advertisement for jail guards. He went to the closest prison, knocked on the door and asked to speak to the warden about a job.

He was posted to Haney. His first supervisor was leader of the provincial NDP and former premier Dave Barrett, then a social worker with the corrections branch.

In the 20 years he's put in, three persons stand out as sources of inspiration, he said.

All three were inmates and native Indians.

One, a sullen youth, was talked by Schultz into leading a rescue team up a rugged mountain side to reach a Boy Scout who had fallen and broken his leg. For his achievement, the Indian won respect and gained self-worth, Schultz said.

The other, a giant of a man, helped Schultz fight a fire at Aoulette River. Grabbing a hose and shielding Schultz from the intense heat, the man refused to budge until he'd put out the blaze. The performance, said Schultz, was nothing short of heroic.

The third entered Alouette River, a hopeless drunk. After six months he was released and went on to become one of B.C.'s foremost native dancers.

All three had this much in common — they overcame seemingly impossible obstacles, and, through their experiences in the prison system, learned how to survive.

"Every staff member needs these kinds of experiences to charge his batteries. There are such a lot of negative vibrations in jails."

Schultz, who is married with four children — all adopted and of mixed race — said when he first came to Canada he was so grateful he felt obligated to make a contribution. The corrections service proved the answer.

"If I've touched just one man, it'll make everything I've ever done worthwhile.".

QUICKEST WAY to get a youngster's attention is to dress like a clown and pass out a balloon or two. And that's exactly what clowns Glenn Molson (left), Christie Evans (centre) and Robyn Leslie did at Vic West elementary to let everybody know that Victoria's summer parks and playground program starts July 4. It features softball, swimming, arts and crafts games and a summer carnival. Youngsters aged 5 to 13 who want to participate should call 385-5711. (Bill Halkett photo)

Couvelier Denies Plant Land Limit

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier today denied that he has ever told a would-be tool manufacturer he could acquire only seven acres for $700,000 in the proposed Saanich industrial park on Interurban Road.

Saanich contractor-investor Nick Liberto made that claim Saturday, but Couvelier described the statement as absolutely false.

"I have never talked to Mr. Liberto about price or in terms of limiting the acreage he wanted," the mayor said today.

Couvelier said his only reference to price was the one he has made publicly — that serviced land in the 125-acre industrial park would sell for $2 per square foot, or $86,000 per acre.

Liberto, who with partner Dennis Dorosz plans to establish a plant to manufacture a new drilling bit for the oil industry, said he only learned last week that the land for which he was negotiating was also being considered by Saanich for an industrial park site.

The location is on Crown land next to Camosun College on Interurban.

Liberto said the company would need at least 30 acres but Saanich has indicated it could expect only seven acres, at a price of $700,000.

He said unless Saanich is more co-operative the company will be forced to locate its factory in either Alberta or Texas.

Couvelier also told the Times today that Liberto's claim to have received a lease undertaking from Economic Development Minister Don Phillips is at odds with the assurances received by Saanich from the B.C. Development Corporation.

"Ald. Vantreight, Ald. Cass, Mr. Tremayne (municipal administrator) and I went to Vancouver on Friday and completed our preliminary negotiations with BCDC," he said.

"The minister (Phillips) was there all day and we came away with our objective attained. Draw your own conclusions," he added.

Couvelier said that armed with a letter of understanding from the corporation, he hoped for council approval of the industry park proposal at an in-camera meeting later today.

The mayor said earlier that the land banking scheme would give a windfall benefit to all Saanich taxpayers, and provide "at least a million dollars a year as a tax base."

Price Right On Saanich Bubble Bids

Five companies including a Victoria firm — Victoria Paving Ltd. — have submitted tenders for building Saanich's proposed indoor tennis centre and the prices are "right in the ballpark," a municipal official said today.

Saanich recreation director Bill Young said he has had only a preliminary look at the bids opened Friday, but they confirm his earlier predictions that the tennis structure can be built for around $240,000.

Purchasing agent Mrs. E.M. Bowering said the tendered prices for the complete package, including four tennis courts and air-support structure, range from $222,450 to $265,900.

Two of the firms also submitted bids for constructing a steel-frame building, and one of these was competitive with the bubble prices.

Bowering said as the tenders contain a number of options and variables, it would be difficult and perhaps confusing to give a breakdown by name and price.

Young said the information must be analyzed for a full report to council next week.

The Racquet Club of Victoria recently announced plans to build a five-court tennis bubble. But Mayor Mel Couvelier says he believes this project will not eliminate the need for a Saanich-owned tennis facility because the Racquet Club courts will be fully used by members.

Although it earlier selected a site alongside the Cedar Hill Community Centre for the tennis centre, council deferred a final go-ahead for the project pending receipt of tenders and confirmation that the facility could pay for itself within five years.

Freelance Gutted By 'Rebels'

Inability of the Cuna Indian chiefs to control their young people and talk of revolution among the Indians resulted in the loss of the provincial government's 100-foot schooner Freelance, Dr. Philip Ney said today.

Home after spending 10 days trying to salvage what is left of the 71-year-old gaff-rigged vessel, hung on a coral reef in the San Blas Islands, east of the Panama Canal, Ney said 20 to 30 young Cuna Indians had stripped the vessel.

He said they had hacked away portholes, doors and hatches and destroyed everything they could.

"They literally took her apart. They made a total job on it," he said.

"The Freelance was a victim of a peculiar combination of events. The chiefs were very upset that their young people had done this to the ship.

"There is talk of revolution. They were given the land by King Philip of Spain in the 16th century and they want to secede from Panama."

He said police who stood by without any attempt to stop the looting and destruction probably did not want to have something precipate a revolution.

Ney said the Panamanian government should be made to compensate B.C. for the total value of the lost vessel.

Ney, representing the Quest Star Society, which would have operated the Freelance for the government in an outward-bound type of program for the province's youth, said he does not recommend B.C. try to rebuild the Freelance.

He said valuable machinery, such as the engines, might make some salvage work worthwhile.

Ney said the saddest thing is the loss of a dream.

"I hope the visions of a dream don't disappear," he said.

" We very desperately need one (a youth training vessel). This is a real setback in our hopes — dreams are hard to come by."

Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, whose ministry had authorized the purchase, agreed.

"The losers will be a couple of thousand youngsters per year in the province," Bawlf said today.

Luxury Homes Proposed

Vancouver consulting architects are proposing subdivision of the former Oak Bay riding academy property into luxury townhouses.

The firm of Vern H. Delgatty was asked by council to make alternative proposals for development of nearly 10 acres on Cedar Hill Cross Road, now being vacated by the riding academy.

Mayor Brian Smith said the proposals would be outlined at tonight's council meeting at 8 in the municipal hall.

He said one proposal which seems attractive is the construction of a 64-unit townhouse arrangement looking across an artificial lake to Uplands golf course. He said another alternative might be five-storey medium density apartments rather than any high density development which zoning now permits.

Psoriasis Clinic Opens

Victoria General Hospital officially opened its new psoriasis day-care clinic today.

Among those attending the ceremony was Mrs. Anez Heslop, president of the hospital women's auxiliary. The auxiliary has raised about $31,000 for the clinic.

The clinic will be in full operation July 17.

PILOT DROWNS IN SHIP FALL

A Pacific Pilotage Authority pilot drowned late Sunday night off Brotchie Ledge.

Captain Ed Sonne, 48, of 6340 Charles in Burnaby was disembarking about 10.40 p.m. from the Russian vessel Khudoznik Ioganson, outward bound from Vancouver, when he slipped from a ladder, hit the pilot boat and fell into the water. His body was recovered.

The ship is anchored at Royal Roads pending an investigation.

He Succeeded Beyond His Knowing

WE NEVER NEED MUCH excuse to justify a trip to Canada's most beautiful city, and last week we had a good one. Jack Hayes, a principal in the Victoria school system, is due to retire this year. His friends laid on a reception to which we were bidden. So, very brown and constrained in more formal clothes than we normally wear, we pointed our noses south in fine weather.

It's nice to be country cousins on a visit to the city. We forget until once more reminded how green Victoria lawns are and how opulent the flower gardens. Usually we bring with us a list of wants and needs to be shopped for. This store-to-store safari, in mild airs, under Victoria's cotton-candy sky, is always an adventure.

Win found the blue wool blazer she wanted, and by way of a bonus, a pair of super-special kitchen shears with red handles and blades sturdy enough to crunch a poultry bone. And in a store on lower Government street, I found a Grenfell cloth golf jacket to replace the tattered garment I've clung to these many years.

Then we stowed our purchases in the car trunk and took ourselves out to the Racquet Club, where the reception was to be held.

The lounge was crowded with teachers who had taught under Jack Hayes . . . with parents whose young he had introduced to learning . . . and with a number of those students themselves, now grown.

In the midst of it, we found Principal Hayes, an unassuming man rather bewildered by the fuss-and-feathers on his account, and not all that much older-seeming than the educator we remembered.

Inevitably, an affair of that sort is going to take on elements of a sentimental journey.

Our children each in turn came under Jack Hayes' gentle rule. Victoria was a little younger then, and Jack in charge of Frank Hobbs elementary. It was a nice little school, more country than urban then, and looking back on the time our two attended it, those years take on a halcyon quality.

I realize the immense importance to the unformed child of a good start in school — that other life into which our young are plunged at a tender age. A harsh principal, a cruel teacher can turn the learning experience into an ordeal. 'As the twig is bent, so will it grow'; I suspect that the way for many a future dropout is dictated by an over-harsh introduction to education.

Our two were lucky. Jack Hayes attracted teachers of his own mould to his staff. Frank Hobbs was a happy school.

"Do you remember Ron and his violin?" I asked.

Jack smiled. "I'll never forget it," he said with feeling.

Himself strongly musical, and eager that his students should share the joys of music, he launched a school string group. Our Ron, fired with his principal's enthusiasm, elected to learn the violin.

But it was not his instrument, and though he practised conscientiously, the results were catastrophic. We lived in a climate of random walls, screeches and hideous discords until, finally and sadly, Ron turned in his fiddle.

His explanation: "I can't stand all that squeaking under my ear!"

But if Jack failed to make a musician of our son, he succeeded in other directions beyond his knowing. By his own example — worth so much more than mere words — he convinced Ron that the finest thing in life to be was a teacher.

Ron has been an elementary school teacher now for 11 years. I think that he's happy in his work, and that he has never regretted his choice of teaching as a vocation.

The present reclaimed us. We left Jack and Mrs. Hayes with their heads together over their gifts.

A scrap of verse kept nudging me for admission. It applies with particular aptness to Jack Hayes, and others who like him have spent much of a lifetime guiding the young idea.

"For their work continueth," it runs, "far beyond their knowing."

Declines led advances 177 to 144 with 241 issues unchanged.

Foodex Systems Ltd. was up ⅛ to $7⅞ a share on the sale of 1,200 shares following its resumption about 1:30 p.m. after an opening halt for dissemination of news of improved terms in its merger with Hambro Canada Ltd.

Markborough Properties Ltd. climbed 2¼ to $19½ on 4,600 shares after its opening resumption. Hudson's Bay Co., which slipped ⅛ to $20 on 14,800 shares, has announced a share-exchange offer for all Markborough shares.

Q Broadcasting Ltd. Class A shares shot up 4⅛ to a new high of $13 on 100 shares following news that company president William Bellman will offer $12 a share for 60,000 shares. A halt was issued June 15 when Bellman announced he was considering an offer higher than the $11-a-share bid from Morrison Steel and Wire Co. Ltd.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Gambling issues continued their recent surge today while the rest of the stock market languished in relatively quiet trading.

The 2 p.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.85 at 818.17.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-to-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Gambling-related stocks, caught up in a speculative buying binge since the opening of the Resorts International's casino in Atlantic City, N.J., last month, scored some further gains today.

Playboy Enterprises climbed 4¼ to 30⅛, Caesars World gained ⅞ to 28¾, and Bally Manufacturing added one to 39.

Allegheny Airlines, which operates flights in and out of Atlantic City, rose ¾ to 11⅝.

London

LONDON (CP) — Fears of an increase in interest rates and the possibility of an early general election sent the London stock market down almost five points near the close of moderate trading today.

The Financial Times index closed at 453.0, off 3.3.

Leading industrials plunged, while mining issues edged higher with rising bullion prices. Oil stocks declined in line with the general trend.

Outlook Dim For Recovery

TORONTO (CP) — The Permanent, one of Canada's major trust and mortgage companies, has forecast a gloomy outlook for the Canadian economy in the next two years.

"At the present time, we see very little tangible evidence which would warrant an optimistic appraisal of Canada's economic prospects over the next two years," the company said in an updated version of its economic outlook.

It said signs that the economy is starting to emerge from the sluggish growth rates of the last two years are tentative at best.

"Moreover, a mood of caution and uncertainty is firmly entrenched and is in evidence across the board spectrum of economic activity."

The company's conclusion is that the economy will move in a sideways fashion to the end of 1979 with only modest rates of growth.

Prices should drop in the forecast period but "will remain nevertheless at unacceptably high levels."

It forecast higher unemployment and said the jobless rate could displace inflation as the top priority of economic policy.

The Permanent also said it is difficulty to justify the view that Canada could be embarking on a sustainable recovery path "at a point in time when our southern neighbor, the U.S., is in the advance stages of its cyclical expansion."

Credit Union Reserves Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Credit Union Reserve Board reports that its share and deposit guarantee fund reached a new high of $22.7 million as of Dec. 31, 1977, up from $18 million a year earlier.

The projection offered depositors by the fund is in addition to the reserves of the 173 credit unions in B.C., which amounted to $64.9 million at the end of 1977.

The reserve board made grants and conditional loans of $178,623 to credit unions during 1977, the lowest amount since 1971.

The reserve board arranges insurance coverage under a master bonding program on behalf of credit unions in the province.

The board's annual report says cost of claims decreased last year due to fewer claims in the burglary and robbery categories.

Shot Woman 'Lucky To Be Alive'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An 18-year-old woman continues to recover at her mother's home three weeks after she was gunned down by a sniper's bullet — parts of which are still lodged near her brain.

"I'm feeling fine," said Holly Edwards of New Westminster Sunday, but added that she tires easily and gets headaches.

She is one of two women shot within an hour of each other June 14 at an intersection bordering Vancouver and Burnaby.

"It could have been a lot worse," she said. "I'm just lucky to be alive and I'm told I will eventually be able to lead a completely normal life."

Ms. Edwards said she approached the intersection while walking through the area looking for a job. "I was just waiting to cross the road when I heard a loud ringing sound in my head."

"I saw some blood and then I started going down and passed out on the sidewalk."

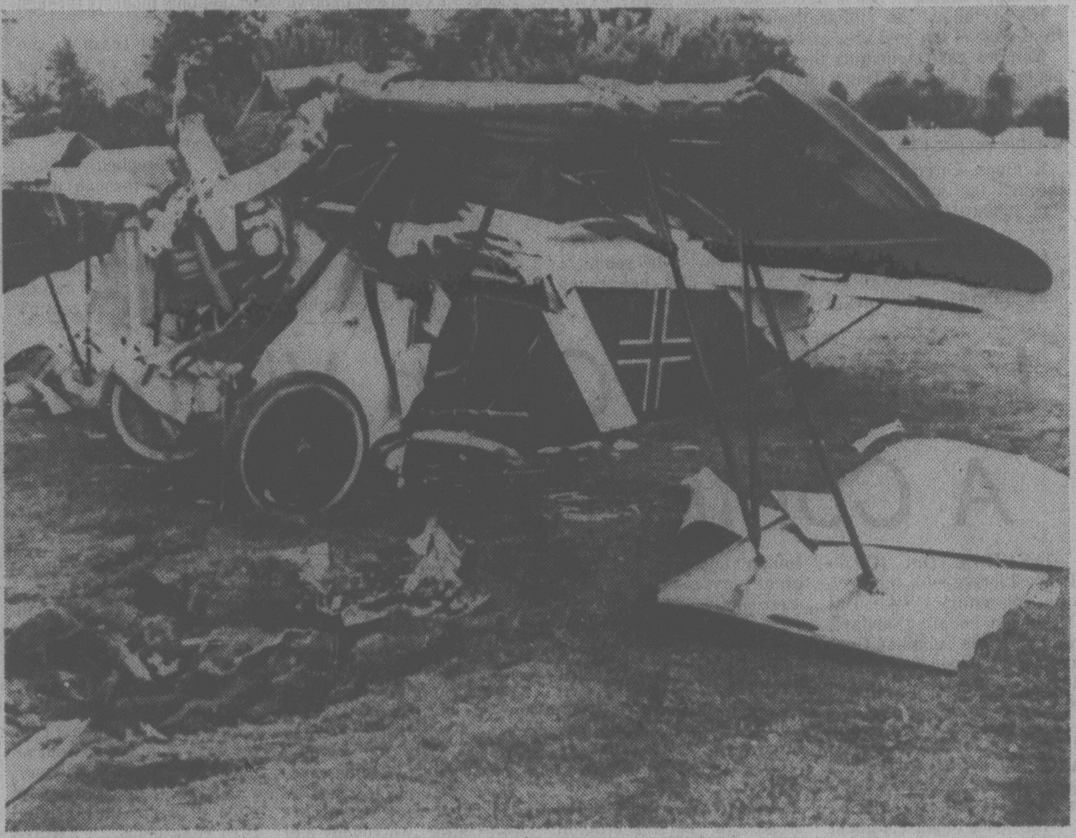
She was rushed to an intensive care unit at Vancouver General Hospital, but wasn't told for some time that she had been shot.

"The doctors didn't tell me very much — but then I saw the bullet, or part of it, on the X-ray. It went in through my left temple, and part of it is still there.

"I guess it's too difficult to operate, so they've decided to leave it there."

Gwymeth Clandinin, 68, of Burnaby was shot in the upper back an hour earlier as she crossed the same intersection. She is also recovering at home.

Michael Edward Johnston, 21, of Vancouver, has been charged with two counts of attempted murder following the shootings.



A SURREY MAN was killed Sunday when his home-built First World War replica aircraft crashed on a golf course in Fort Langley. Witnesses said they heard the plane's engines sputtering before Alfred Kircher, 43, tried to land. The plane crashed near a group of golfers but none were injured.

Refunders' Fee Plot Alleged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two income tax buyers were accused Friday in British Columbia Supreme Court of concocting a scheme to circumvent a judge's order restricting their fees.

Lawyer Boyd Ferris, representing the provincial director of trade practice, made the accusation when he asked the court to cite the men for contempt of court.

Ferris said that Harbour Tax Services and its proprieter, Richard Gordon of West Vancouver, were ordered in an April 4 judgment to pay all sellers 85 per cent of their anticipated refund and to provide the director of trade practices with monthly reports detailing each transaction.

He alleged that Gordon and Randolph Deslaurier devised a scheme using two newly-formed companies which they believed to be outside the bounds of the court order.

Justice R. P. Anderson adjourned the hearing to Sept. 25.

Meat Rules Ignored in B.C

VANCOUVER (CP) — Barbecued meats will be policed by provincial health standards and not by the federal government's new relaxed rules, Dr. Gerald Bonham, city health officer, said Friday.

The provincial health act requires that perishable meats be kept refrigerated or at a certain temperature to stop bacteria growth. Federal health authorities recently relaxed regulations requiring merchants to store cooked meats at temperatures either about 60 degrees celsius or below 4.4 degrees celsius.

The temperature regulations will be replaced by microbiological standards that have yet to be worked out.

Bonham said that since September nine persons have had food poisoning from barbecued meats sold in the city's Chinatown.

"I am hired by the city of Vancouver but am appointed by provincial cabinet to enforce the provincial health act in Vancouver," he said.

"If the federal government changes their regulations they are just setting up rules for their branch to follow — it doesn't affect my responsibilities."

The federal regulations were relaxed after Chinatown merchants — backed by MP Art Lee (L—Vancouver East) and former Progressive Conservative MP Douglas Jung — argued that the controlled temperatures destroyed the meat's flavor and texture.

LRB SETTLES LAB BATTLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — A struggle for control of the laboratory at Vernon Jubilee Hospital was revealed Friday in a decision by the British Columbia Labor Relations Board.

While declining "to go into all the gory details of that internecine war", board chairman Paul Weiler said the struggle was between hospital administrator R. I. Ferguson and Dr. R. Wilcock, a pathologist from Cambridge, England.

Wilcock was hired in 1975 to take control of the laboratory and his status was confirmed by Ferguson in a memo to staff Feb. 18, 1977, Weller said.

However, since then Ferguson apparently decided he wanted Lowell Laidlaw, chief laboratory technologist, to take charge, directing to him administrative correspondence and inviting him to department head meetings.

The LRB decision was on Laidlaw's status within the hospital union, the Health Sciences Association.

It concluded that Wilcock, who has insisted on exercising control over hiring, discipline and such matters, is the one "who truly exercises managerial authority in the laboratory."

The board found that Laidlaw was an employee of the hospital under the provincial labor code and within the union bargaining unit.

MARDI GRAS, OKTOBERFEST, NEW YEAR'S EVE ALL WRAPPED INTO ONE

Argentina Wins Overtime Thriller

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — It was Mardi Gras, Oktoberfest and New Year's Eve all wrapped into one as Argentina began a four-year reign today as the world soccer champion.

The country's 25 million soccer fans poured into the streets and cheered their hearts out Sunday after the team took the final match and the title in a drama-packed, 3-1 overtime victory over The Netherlands.

Forgotten in the celebrations was Brazil's 2-1 victory over Italy in Saturday's match to decide third place.

The World Cup win meant more to Argentina than just a sports title. Through four years of efforts, $700 million in stadium investments, and a vibrant young team, Argentina changed part of its image abroad, not only as a soccer power but as a developing nation.

It took the Argentines seven games to reach the final of the month-long tournament. And the last match, played amid the roar of 77,000 spectators, was fittingly the most dramatic.

At the end of a championship marked by defensive play and few individual stars of the magnitude of Pele or Johann Cruyff, the Argentines squared off against the goal-scoring machine of Holland.

The Dutch had scored more goals than any other team and had a roster that included eight veterans from their luckless 1974 Cup final against West Germany.

But Argentina came through with the goals when they counted and finally provided a hero to a tournament which had none.

His name was Mario Kempes, a husky 23-year-old with a shaggy black mane of hair, whose gift is to score with his left foot.

Kempes booted in two of Argentina's three goals.

His technique: to slither through the defence on the front edge of the goal area and force in cannonball shots.

Kempes gave Argentina the lead in the first half when his low kick got past Dutch goalkeeper Jan Janbloed.

The Dutch tied it with only nine minutes remaining in regulation time when substitute Dirk Nanninga beat Argentine keeper Ubaldo Fillol.

Kempes scored the game-winner for Argentina midway through the 30-minute overtime period and Daniel Bertoni added the clincher late in the required overtime session.

Cesar Luis Menotti, the Argentine coach who rebuilt a team which was known as the "Animals" for their rough play in the 60s, would not give all the credit to Kempes.

"Look," he said to a packed news conference after the 120-minute game. "This was a team performance. Argentina is a team, not individuals. We have no prima donnas. We play for each other.

"Today we showed that we could win the World Cup by being a team. That is what soccer is all about."

Menotti, who played in the great Brazilian team of Santos when Pele was aboard, and in the United States when soccer was still an unknown sport, kept his modesty through the frenetic celebrations.

Asked if Argentina now was the best team in the world, he replied: "Tonight we feel that. Yet, we have not played every country. Let's keep a sense of perspective amid the jubilation."

Menotti was asked whether he would retire, as he had threatened to do during the tournament.

"I was asked to continue today," he replied. "I just don't know if I'd have the energy to go through it all over again."

But the Argentines did and the celebrations hit a fever pitch.

At the stadium, thousands shouted to Kempes in unison: "Kempes, no-se va." It was a reference to the star's career in a Spanish soccer club which lent him to Argentina for the Cup. In Spain, his goal-scoring ability has earned him the nickname of "El Matador."

In downtown Buenos Aires, streets were so clogged that ambulances could not move through the throngs of flag-waving fans. Persons who were treated for fainting had to be evacuated by subway.

In Saturday's playoff for third place Brazil used two second-half goals to beat Italy in a rematch of their 1970 World Cup final in Mexico City.

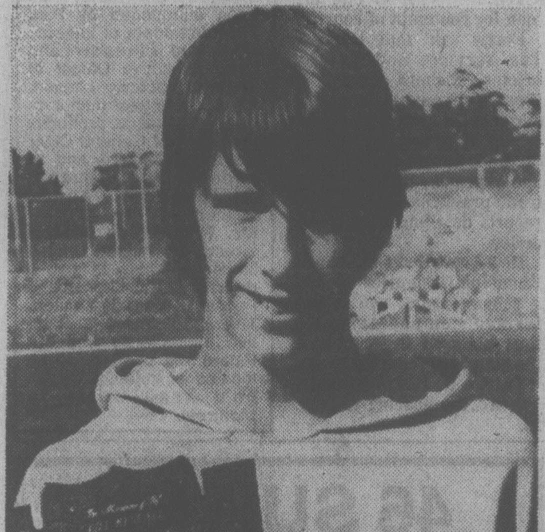
For a while it appeared the Italians would avenge their 4-1 loss eight years ago, especially after Franco Causio gave Italy a 1-0 lead seven minutes before half time.

But Brazil came back with two goals in seven minutes midway through the second half.

Brazil tied the score after 63 minutes when Roberto slipped the ball to Nelinho on the right, and Nelinho smashed a 30-yard shot that swerved inside the far post with Italian goalkeeper Dino Zoff stranded.

Seven minutes later, the Brazilians went ahead, and the man at the heart of it was veteran Roberto Rivelino, brought on only six minutes earlier as a substitute.

Rivelino passed to Jorge Mendoca who pulled it back for Dirceu to slam a 25-yard left-foot shot into the net.



WINNER OF TROPHY for outstanding performance by a male track athlete at 25th annual Y-Times track and field meet at Centennial Stadium Sunday was Trevor McRae of the Victoria Flying "Y" club. McRae won the 100, 200 and 800 metres in the bantam track division and also the shot put. Track meet stories, results and pictures are on page 15.

Albion Snaps Incog streak

Strong fielding, excellent bowling by John Buchanan and Alan Carter, and the bat of Brian Heaps combined to put an end to Incogs all-conquering march through the Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Albion put it all together Sunday to record a convincing eight-wicket victory over the previously-unbeaten Incogs.

Batting first, Incogs were all out for 102 with Jeremy Goodwin supplying 41 runs and Rob Wilson 29. Albion, with Heaps scoring 71 not out, reached 103 for the loss of only two wickets.

Buchanan took six wickets for 23 runs while Carter captured two for 17.

Oak Bay scored its first victory, crushing Saanich by 80 runs.

Peter Wheaton scored 34 and Eric Richards 25 as Oak Bay scored 138 all out. Saanich managed 58 runs (32 not out by Perry Woods) before its final wicket fell.

Smart bowling by Kortright Richards (six for 31) and Brian Tetlow (two for eight) highlighted Oak Bay's attack.

In Saturday's only match, Alcos defeated Naniamo by eight wickets. Nanaimo scored 60 all out, including 21 by Gilbert Smith, but Alcos replied with 61 for two, getting 28 from Mike Nation and 27 not out from Peter Nation.

HARTLEY, BRADY FAIL TO QUALIFY

Victoria's two hopes for starting spots in the 80th annual British Columbia Open-Challengers Circuit tennis championship failed to qualify for the big show that gets under way at the Racquet Club Tuesday morning.

Russ Hartley of Victoria bowed to Dan Whittaker of the United States and Ian Brady, the city's other candidate, was beaten by Dave King, also of the U.S., in Sunday's qualifying tests.

Eight qualifying spots were open in the men's final field of 32. The qualifiers included Canadians Steve Rogul and J.C. Gosselin, New Zealand's Peter Hampton, and five Americans — Larry Stefanki, Joe Garcia, Doug King, Rocky Maguire and Chip Fisher, a former winner of the B.C. Open title.

Women's qualifying got under way this morning with only one Victorian — Lori Barlow — bidding for a spot in the final field.

Tournament action starts Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

Lacrosse Leaders Bounce Athletics

Esquimalt's Universal Sheet Metal and the Hampton Park Hustlers cruised to easy victories Sunday in Senior "B" Lacrosse League play at Pearkes Arena.

Front-running Esquimalt tripped Athletics 15-9 while Hustlers beat Saanich Metro Honda 17-6 to remain two points behind the leaders.

Kim Browning, with three goals and an assist, and Randy Bryant, with two and four, and John Entzminger, with two goals and a pair of assists, sparked Esquimalt. Kevin Kennedy notched four tallies for Athletics.

Don McNeill and Tom Churchill each counted three times to spark Hampton Park. Mike Yager and Brent Atkins both counted a pair while Bruce Richmond (3) and Owen Richmond (2) carried Saanich's attack.

Because of the holididay weekend, next week's games will be played on Monday rather than Sunday.

Lietzke's Open Victory A Confidence-Builder

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Bruce Lietzke isn't into psycho-cybernetics like Pat McGowan, but after Sunday's windup at the Canadian Open golf championship he's thinking it's not such a bad idea setting goals for oneself.

Lietzke hasn't been working particularly hard at his game since winning two PGA events—the Tucson and Hawaii opens—early in 1977.

"I'm not a super-confident person," he confided in a post-game rundown of his round that saw him scramble for a par at the 18th to claim the $50,000 winner's purse and the Peter Jackson Trophy.

His 73, two over par on Glen Abbey's 7,050-yard championship course, gave him a 72-hole score of 283—one under par for 72 holes and just one shot clear of the rookie McGowan.

Lietzke, a 26-year-old Kansan who now makes his home in Beaumont, Tex., said he couldn't understand "how the great players stay on top of their confidence."

He said Sunday's round was demanding "both physically and mentally" because of the groups playing slow in front "and because we were having our own difficulties."

"It was difficult to stay up all day. . . .

"I don't have goals (like McGowan sets for himself after studying psycho-cybernetics at Brigham Young University last year).

"Whether or not that has anything to do with the way I play, maybe a psychiatrist will tell me."

"This has been a great boost to me mentally. But I've got to start working harder. Maybe I'll set some goals for myself."

McGowan has been setting goals for himself since joining the tour this spring. He had won only $13,211 in his previous 20 tournaments.

The last of several goals he had set for himself was almost realized Sunday when he closed with a 72 and came within one stroke of winning his first major tournament.

He shared the lead in the $250,000 event with Jeff Hewes after two rounds and was never out of contention all four days. His cool exterior, he admits, belies his actual feelings.

OPEN NOTES: Danny Edwards, in the second group off Sunday, missed a three-foot birdie putt on the 18th that would have given him a course record 66 round. . . CBC announced that it has reached agreement with Labatt Breweries Ltd. on a three-year television contract covering the revamped Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship, to be known as the International Golf Classic with $100,000 in purse money. . .The 72-hole tournament, this year in Vancouver, Aug. 17-20, has also been opened to include national PGA champions. . . . RCGA officials announced that more than 90,000 fans attended the Open, surpassing the rcord 85,500 set here last year. . . Tom Purtzer wasn't even watching when his tee shot to the 15th green kicked off the hill and into the cup Sunday for the first-ever ace in the Canadian tournament. . .Purtzer used a seven iron on the 133-yard hole. . .

VIC WEST BOWLERS EARN GAMES BERTH

The Doug Boyle rink from Victoria West defeated a Powell River foursome skipped by Alex Dunlop 19-6 on the Gordon Head greens Sunday to capture the Vancouver Island (zone 6) berth in the British Columbia Summer Games at Penticton in August.

Clinching other zone berths earlier were Dave Breedon of Gordon Head (singles); Archie Allardyce and Bert Bennett of Victoria (doubles), and Harry Tuck, Tom Dixon and Hector Shaw of Nanaimo (triples).

Boyle, supported by third Ed Brown, second George Konchak and lead Don Forbes, defeated Gordon Head's Doug Day 18-10 while Dunlop defeated Jim McGregor of Victoria West 19-3 in the semi-finals.

Island pairs playdowns, leading to the B.C. championship, gets under way this evening at Victoria West. The pairs event winds up Friday night and Peace Cup play, a men's singles competition, begins Saturday at Beacon Hill.

Martina Nips Chris

EASTBOURNE, England (AP) — Martina Navratilova overcame a 4-1 deficit in the final set, survived a match point and then reeled off three straight games to beat Chris Evert 6-4, 4-6, 9-7 in the final of the Eastbourne international tennis championship Saturday.

The match could well have been a preview of the Wimbledon final in two weeks time.

In swirling wind, both women struggled for nearly 2¼ hours in a bitter and enthralling battle. It was not until the two final games that Navratilova appeared as if she would come out on top.

Roberts Nipped In Dutch Contest

ASSEN, The Netherlands (AP) — Johnny Cecotto of Venezuela, riding a Yahama, set a lap record in winning the 500cc Dutch Grand Prix motorcycle race Saturday by edging Kenny Roberts of the United States, the leader in world championship standings.

Rolling Stone Gathers Prize

Stock car drivers would like you to think their particular brand of racing is "highly competitive."

Gordie Stone, Dean Cramb of Duncan and Nanaimo's Pete Yarmoluk gave that theory a good ride Saturday by making the 1978 Billy Foster Memorial Trophy race one of the most exciting on record.

It was a 60-lap race at Western Speedway and Stone spent 59 of them making up ground from the back of the pack. Point leader among Island drivers, Stone finally forged to the front on the third turn of the final lap and nipped Yarmoluk for the trophy.

The lightly-regarded Cramb added to the excitement by turning in the fast time of 20.04 seconds and then leading the main event from the 33rd to the 59th laps. Desperately trying to hold off Stone and Yarmoluk, Cramb spun out on the final lap but recovered in time to settle for third place.

A spectacular mishap stirred the crowd of 1,779 on the 43rd lap. Jesper Lind spun on the main straightaway and was hit head-on by Wayne Johnson. Fortunately, neither driver was seriously injured.

Next program at the Lamgford oval is Wednesday's Winston Victoria 100 race for Grand National stock cars. Racing gets underway at 7 p.m.

PAT SIZZLES; NANCY SAGS

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Pat Bradley fired a sizzling five-under-par 67 Sunday for a four-stroke victory over Jane Blalock in the $50,000 Lady Keystone Open as rookie sensation Nancy Lopez faltered in her bid for an unprecedented sixth consecutive triumph.

The 21-year-old Lopez, needing a near miracle to overcome the eight-shot deficit she faced going in to the final round, failed to weave the magic that made her a winner in her five previous starts, a Ladies' Professional Golf Association record.

A swarming gallery and the largest army of reporters ever assigned to cover an LPGA event watched Lopez shoot a two-over-par 74 on the 6,398-yard Hershey Country Club layout.

The richest rookie in golf history, she finished 15 strokes off Bradley's blistering pace of 10-under 206.

Blalock, whose opening-day 67 stood as the low tournament score until Bradley's Sunday round, shared the 36-hole lead with the tournament winner.

Blalock turned in a 71 to finish six under par for the tournament, earning $5,040. Joyce Kazmierski also fashioned a 67 to finish in third place at 213.

Nancy's Navy, a color-splashed troop of fans, appeared poised to explode on the 415-yard first hole when Lopez dropped her approach shot six feet from the cup. But Lopez missed the putt and it set the tone for a round in which she could not make a birdie.

Krimmer and Pakos Take Over Spotlight

Wayne Krimmer and George Pakos grabbed the spotlight Sunday at Lambrick Park as they performed unusual feats to help Farmer Construction chalk up a pair of Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League victories over Dairy Queen.

Krimmer was the starting pitcher for Farmers in both contests, going six innings each time and collecting two triumphs, by 14-5 and 3-1 scores, to run his record for the season to seven wins and two losses.

Pakos was the glory man of the first game, swatting two home runs, the second one a grand-slammer, during the nine-run fifth inning. Pakos drove in six runs in that merry-go-round frame as Farmers expanded a 4-2 lead into a 13-2 advantage.

Pakos also scored three times during the game, as did clubmate Al Moir, who included a home run and triple among his three hits and batted in four runs. Also enjoying the Farmer batting fiesta was Mark Lawless, who cracked three hits in four trips to the plate.

Krimmer was relieved by Ron Holmes in the first contest after yielding three runs in the sixth inning. He was touched for six hits in that encounter, but was considerably tougher in the second, striking out seven batters and allowing one Dairy Queen hit in the opening frame and two more in the sixth, before he was relieved by Terry Painter.

George Fritz went the distance on the mound for the Queens in the nightcap.

Mussels Show Positive Side

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Professional baseball's return to Victoria has been wrapped in an unfair amount of negativeness.

"Won't last. . .Need major league affiliation. . ." and etcetera.

Much of the negativeness comes from persons who have not watched Victoria Mussels play.

For the few hundred who have bothered to attend three Northwest Baseball League games at Royal Athletic Park, some of the positive features are coming to the surface.

Sunday, in an 8-6 victory over the Bellingham Mariners, it was the hitting.

But there is also a plus factor to show on a defence that has turned in four double plays and committed only two errors in three home games.

However, it was the ringing of the bats that provided Victoria field manager Jim Chapman with his latest positive delight.

Mussels banged out 11 hits, including the team's first homer. Third baseman Don Gans did the honor with a two-run, fence-clearing shot that capped a four-run burst in the fourth. Gans also drove in another run with a single.

Grant Alpaugh, replacing Chapman after the Victoria pilot was ejected from the game, went three-for-three, including a triple, while Bob Potts and Doug Morganti each had two hits.

Chapman got an early shower for disputing field umpire Dan HowardYs ruling on a "home run" by Bellingham's Mike Guerra in the fourth inning. Guerra's belt to left field actually appeared to be a ground-rule double when the ball bounced over the fence. Howard, however, ruled it a homer.

More positive was Dave Edler's clout. It was a grand slam clout that chased Victoria starter Dave Cheadle in the seventh.

Until then, Cheadle, who gave up 10 walks and was the victim of Bellingham's 19-1 victory in Victoria's home opener, had the Mariner under control. Scott Harding and Brian Peterson mopped up to preserve the victory for Cheadle.

Bellingham managed only seven hits off the three Victoria hurlers.

Cheadle, except for Edler's clout, looked much more impressive than he was in his opening assignment. Harding and Peterson also gave Victoria's relief corps a look of sureness.

Victoria, now with a 2-4 won-lost record, suffered its fourth setback Saturday when Mike Moore connected for a pair of homers and Mike White added another to spark the Mariners to a 10-3 victory in Bellingham.

Starting pitcher Don Rogelstad, Mussels' pitching coach, was ejected by Howard in the sixth inning for disputing a balk call. Catcher Vito Lucarelli also was ejected in the final inning.

Sunday's game concluded the six-game Bellingham-Victoria series. Mussels now face Gray's Harbor Loggers at Royal Athletic Park tonight and Tuesday, then host Walla Walla Padres Wednesday and Thursday.

One-Hitter Isn't Enough To Give Skylarks Sweep

Debbie Derksen, Cathy Wilkinson and Sharon Ferrill provided Victoria Skylarks with outstanding pitching performances Saturday. Unfortunately for the latter, offensive support wasn't quite the same as that offered Derksen and Wilkinson and Skylarks had to settle for victories in two of three Vancouver Senior "A" Women's League games against Vancouver El Cid.

Derksen and Wilkinson both fired three-hitters as Skylarks recorded 6-l and 4-0 triumphs in the first two games at Hyacinth Park. Ferrill's one-hit performance went for naught as El Cid squeezed out a 1-0 win in the third game.

The lone hit off Ferrill was a leadoff single by Debbie Green, who went on to score the game's only run with the help of a sacrifice, a stolen base and sacrifice fly.

After Green's single, Ferrill retired 13 straight, gave up a walk to Minnie Scarfe in the fifth, and then did not allow another baserunner.

Lorna McHattie drove in four runs with a triple and single to support Derksen while Sandy Ferguson's two-run double and run-producing singles by Laurie Grimston and Maxine Stovel accounted for Victoria's second-game scoring.

Shutout Shared

Pitchers Ray Beveridge and Ken Fox combined for a one-hit shutout Sunday to provide Athletics with a 1-0 victory over Ingraham Hotel in a Stuffy McGinnis Men's Softball League game at Central Park.

The only run was unearned as Lou Vermette reached base on an error, stole second and then rode home on Bog Bugslag's sixth-inning single.

Ken Mireau got Ingraham's only hit, a first-inning single off Beveridge, who was relieved by Fox in the fifth.

In other games at Central, the hitters took over as Port Angeles Telecable swept a doubleheader, 7-4 and 10-8, from last-place Batesons. Port Angeles hammered out 21 hits in the two games, including a three-run homer by Bill Tiderman.

At Sooke, veteran Ron Fedosenko fashioned a four-hit shutout as the Merchants dropped Juan de Fuca's junior Buiilders 3-0.

And in an exhibition game, Elks of the McGinnis League edged Taylor House Movers of the Heywood League 3-2 despite being outhit 9-4.

Hornets Triumph

Saanich Hornets added the playoff championship to the league title they won earlier by blanking Oak Bay Crusaders 23-0 Sunday in the Junior Bantam Football League's championship final at Cedar Hill Park.

Sam Devana, Doug Waldie and Gary Layton each scored a touchdown and Paddy Wyman counted a two-point convert and a 20-yard field goal for Saanich.

Hornets completed a sweep of league team trophies by getting the nod as the most sportsmanlike team in voting by referees.

Richmond Earns Split

Times News Services

Richmond Roadrunners scored 32 goals at the weekend but could do no better than split a pair of Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League games.

Doug Morison scored three goals and added two assists Saturday to lead Richmond to a 15-13 win over New Westminster Salmonbellies but first-place Burnaby Cablevision, getting five goals from John Swan, defeated the Runners 24-17 Sunday.

The split brought Runners to within two points of third-place Victoria McDonalds and set the stage for Tuesday's important meeting in Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Dan Perreault added three goals for Burnaby while Greg Jenson and Kip Jarvis each scored three for Richmond.

It's for anyone, from age 8 (that's tyke) to Andy Green (who is 70 years young).

It's participaction at its best and at a level of competition that can be enjoyed.

And, for the annual Y-Times Track and Field Meet, which this weekend reached its 25th anniversary at the University of Victoria Centennial Stadium, it's the biggest of its kind, again; and the biggest event of this substance in the entire northwest.

The official count of entries was 1,063, compared to last year's "high" of 989; and they came from everywhere, and mostly from out of town.

And yes, Andy Green, that remarkable 70-year old, ran in two races, the mile and the 5,000 metres in the Masters Class, and finished in both. Some other septuagenarians should try that on a weekend! And oh, yes, Andy's best event is neither of what he ran on the weekend — it's the 10,000.

AGE-CLASS? You bet.

On the other end of the age scale there is this year's golden girl.

Linda Martin of the Flying "Y" Track Club is just 12 years old, has been running since she was in grade two, has competed in "about four" Y-Times meets previously, and will be competing in many more if she keeps improving her talents.

No bigger than a minute, figuratively speaking, all Linda did was to capture four events.

She was first in the 100 and 200 metres, and took honors in the long jump and shot putt in the peewee division, for which she was selected outstanding female athlete overall.

Her compatriot on the male side was a 15-year old from Seattle who also may be heard from again even before he grows up.

Mike Watts of Seattle Woodlands Track Club was a four-event winner and took home two awards, the outstanding male athlete overall and the best performance by a male in throwing events.

Watts set a B.C. record of 15.50 metres in the midget boys' shot putt and also a B.C. open mark of 6.16 metres in the long jump.

His other victories came in the discus and javelin.

For Best Performance

Outstanding performers in The Y-Times Track and Field meet at Centennial Stadium at the weekend were:

FEMALE

JUMPS — Scarlet Vandenbos, Kajacs.
TRACK — Katie Frahm, Seattle Eastside.
OVERALL — Linda Martin, Flying "Y".

MALE

JUMPS — Doug Porter, Unattached.
TRACK — Trevor McRae, Flying "Y".
THROWS — Mike Watts, Seattle Woodland.
OVERALL — Mike Watts, Seattle Woodland.

The third four-time winner at the meet was Trevor McRae of the Flying "Y" who received the Bill Kendall Memorial Trophy as the outstanding male in track.

McRae won the bantam boys' 100, 200 and 800 metres, and also the shot putt.

Another award winner was Scarlet Vandenbos of Kajaks, who already is a five-year veteran of Y-Times competition. She had the best performance for a female in jumping with a leap of 1.75 metres in the high jump.

Katie Frahmof Seattle is, like Martin, only 12 years of age, has been competing for five years, has been here once previously, and was judged to have the best performance in track with victories in the 800 and 1,500 metres. She won the Bill Kendall Memorial award for females.

Doug Porter, unattached, set a B.C. open and native record with a vault of 4.05 metres in the juvenile pole vault. That earned him the top jumping award.

Other records fell to Gary Hong of Vancouver Olympic Club who finished second to Watts in the long jump with a leap of 5.97 metres, a B.C. native record; and to Alex Ritchie of Coquitlam Cheetahs, who won the 1,500 metre steeplechase in 4:28.3. This is a new B.C. open and native record for juvenile men. The old mark was 4:29.9.

Brenda Dore of Richmond took home three titles. She won the A 100 and A 200 metres, and the A long jump in the girls' midget section; Mike Dailey of Alberni won the midget boys' B shot putt, discus and javelin.

In addition there were 17 double winners, most notable of whom was Colleen Gibson of Abbotsford.

Gibson won the women's open 100 metres in 12 seconds flat and the 200 metres in 25.5. Gail Gummer of Esquimalt was second in both events with Cheryl Noble of Mercuries third.

Judy Tobacco, running for the Vancouver Olympic Club, won the 400 metres in 56.2 seconds while Debbie Campbell of Mercuries saved a victory for the home folks with a win in the 800 metres in the time of 2:12.1.

Zuonko Stankovic of VOC was the only double winner in men's open competition. Stankovic captured the 100 metres in 10.4 seconds and the 400 metres in 48.6.

Budget Leadoff Duo 'the Best'

Still Canada's best and coholders of the world men's softball championship, Victoria Budgets have several plus factors on their side.

The pitching is there, so is speed, hitting and defence.

Not to be overlooked is Victoria's one-two leadoff combination in the batting order. Dave Williams and Carl Walker are, in the opinion of playing-manager Harvey Stevenson, "the best."

None better anywhere, says Harvey, and you can't argue with The Big Bear after the job Williams and Walker did on Aurora Home Savings while Budgets were sweeping their four-game exhibition series from last year's United States finalists.

Budgets, 2-1 and 8-4 victors Friday, completed the sweep at Royal Athletic Park by nipping the Illinois squad 2-1 and 3-2 in eight innings Saturday night before a crowd of about 1,000 fans.

Stevenson will experiment with his lineup but he always seems to call on Williams and Walker when he wants to get the job done.

"I don't care if they hit .005, .050 or .500," said Stevenson. "I've told Dave that all I want him to do is get on base. Walker's job is to get him to second."

Which is what they did Saturday.

Williams grounded out in his first time to the plate, then took first base six straight times with a pair of well-coaxed walks and four singles, including three in succession in the nightcap. He also drove in two runs.

Walker got on base seven straight times, advancing Williams into scoring position on four occasions. Two of his hits came on sacrifice attempts when Walker completely crossed up Aurora defenders by placing bunts in unguarded places.

It is a tribute to Walker's bat handling that he virtually has a green light to do what he wants, including attempting to punch the ball past onrushing fielders. Stevenson reckons that Walker is a master at getting the ball into play, particularly towards shortstop, on two-strike situations. The groundouts cost Carl a time at bat but on many occasions they actually are deliberte sacrifices.

While Williams and Walker did their jobs superbly, they had to share the spotlight with pitcher Andy Konpacki and utility infielder Randy Benn. Konopacki, who won both Friday games, took credit for a save and his third series victory Saturday.

Coming into the first game with Aurora runners on first and second and only one out, the Packer got Gary Hunley to line to first baseman Pete Songhurst for an unassisted double play to save the victory for rookie Larry Cole.

Benn got Budgets rolling in the second game with a second-inning homer and then singled Bob Holness home with the winning run in the bottom of the extra-inning game.

Now 23-9 for the season and 6-2 after two of their five "super series," Budgets play in the annual Seattle invitational tournament next weekend but return to face Santa Rosa, Calif., here July 8-9.

Aurora 000 001 0—1 4 5
Budgets 000 020 x—2 6 1
Bob Sterkel 6-3 and Dick Zuccato; Larry Cole 5-5, Andy Konopacki (7) and Alden Govenlock.

Victoria 010 010 01—3 10 0
Ron Sterkel 8-2 and Bob Voss, Zuccato (6); Dave Wilson, Konopacki 13-1 (6) and Bob Burrows. Home run: Budgets—Randy Benn (1st).

U.S. Won't Switch

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian university football players will again face the best college players from the United States at the second Can-Am Bowl in January at Tampa, Fla.

Officials said that the U.S. National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) will not alter a rule stating that post-season all-star games only include senior players.

The U.S. defeated the Canadian all-stars 22-7 last season and Canadian officials accused their U.S. counterparts of reneging on a deal to use only second-division athletes.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Today's deal is presented as a "bridge mystery." You are informed that our South declarer lost his game contract because he failed to utilize the facts that were available to him. It is your job to unearth these facts.

Both sides vulnerable.
West deals.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇.

West cashed his three top diamonds, East discarding the deuce of hearts on the third diamond lead. Had West played a fourth diamond at this point, East would have made his singleton king of trumps. But West chose to lead a heart at trick four, declarer overtaking dummy's jack with his ace. He then led the queen of trumps and took the finesse against West's hoped-for king. But East possessed this key card, and it won the setting trick. Where did declarer slip?

It would be hindsight to say that if declarer had put up the board's ace of trumps — instead of finessing — he would have caught East's singleton king. Surely East didn't figure to have been dealt the singleton king. Yet the fact remains that East's singleton king should have been felled by dummy's ace.

Reverting to the bidding, West had not only passed originally, but he had also failed to overcall South's opening one-spade bid. And West was known to have started with five diamonds headed by the ace, king and queen. Surely if West had also possessed the guarded king of trumps, he would either have opened the bidding or overcalled. Surely West could not have possessed the spade king.

Therefore, South's finessing against West for the king of spades (as South had done) could never have been the winning play. Since it was known that East had the spade king, declarer's sole hope of avoiding the loss of a trump trick depended on the king being a singleton. Very simply, it was a matter of hope versus no hope.

Fall Space Check Urged for Schools

A space analysis of nine Greater Victoria elementary schools singled out for possible partial closure in September has been prepared by school superintendent Allan Stables.

Stables' analysis follows a report by the school board's process committee, which was formed to look at the problem of declining enrolment.

The committee recommended that the nine schools be considered candidates for closure of classrooms, wings or annexes only.

The schools are Braefoot, Cloverdale, Doncaster, Hampton, Oaklands, Quadra, Sir James Douglas, Uplands and Willows.

In his report, Stables recommends the schools be examined in September to determine if the projected figures match actual fall enrolment.

He also makes predictions that let some schools off the hook temporarily as far as space closures are concerned.

Schools that definitely will need all available extra space in the fall are Cloverdale and Hampton. Both schools will take students from Tolmie Elementary, which the school board decided to close this year.

Schools that may have extra classroom space are Braefoot, Doncaster, Oaklands and Uplands.

Although Willows school might have several extra classrooms in September, they will eventually be needed for the school's expanding French program.

Quadra and Sir James Douglas may have annexes free in the fall that could be either rented out or closed, Stables' report says.

The maximum number of students each school could comfortably hold was calculated by district administration using a formula of 25 pupils per regular classroom, 50 students in each kindergarten class and 15 students to a special class.

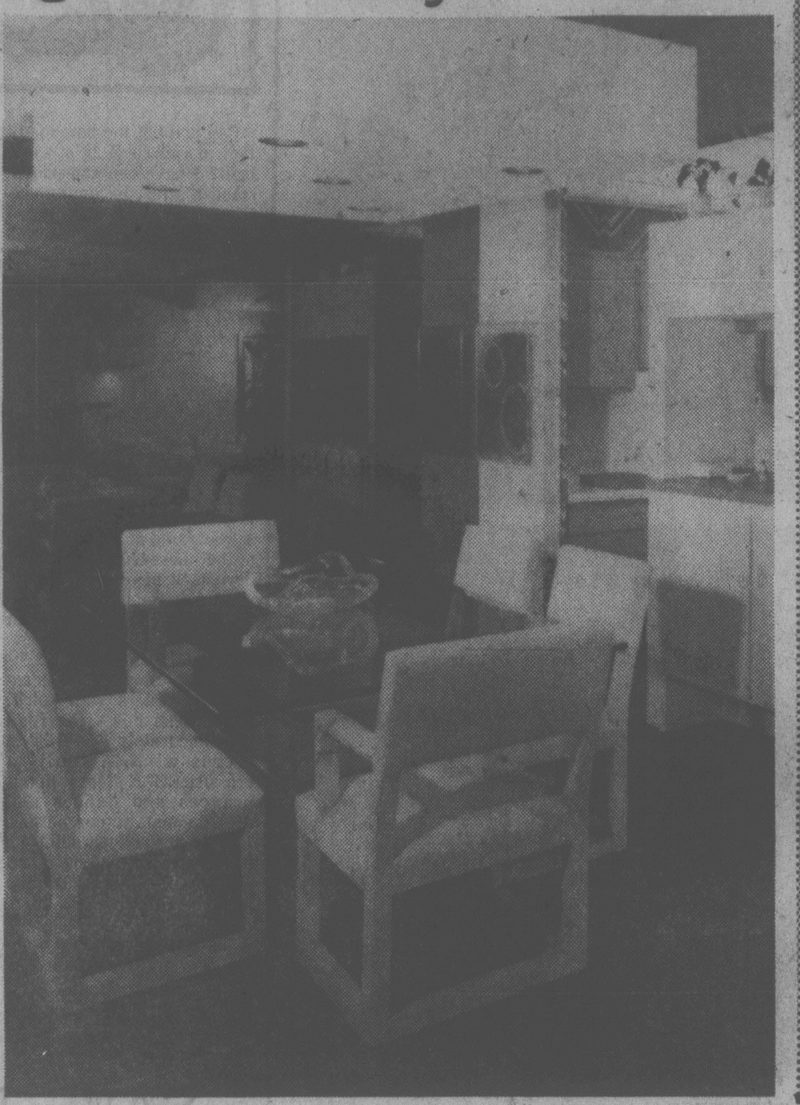
Making Over Says 'You'

By PAULINE GRAVES



When you build your own home, you have the pleasure of planning for your needs and for your tastes, having a house that really says "you." Buying an existing house, you live with tastes and needs of others, or with the blandness offered by speculation builders. However, houses can be made over, as was done in the dining room shown here, and the changes were primarily those of addition.

The major change gave a sculptured look to what had been a box-like area. A suspended ceiling which contains recessed lighting now hangs over the dining group. Considerably lower than the surrounding ceiling, it brings lighting closer to the dining table, creates intimacy for the area and differentiates the dining area from the living room to which it is very open.

The other additions are largely background. Rough plaster now coats all wall surfaces to give texture where before there was none. Large 12-inch squares of quarry tile cover the floor, and the addition of bronze mirrors to the dining room wall makes the small area more spacious than before. In fact, this is the only solid wall in the dining area. One side is totally open to the living room, a pass-through and a narrow walkway opens a second side to the kitchen, and a door in the third side leads to the bedroom wing. Therefore, although actual dining room footage is quite small, there is no feeling of being crowded or cramped.

Holes Built in Paving

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Modern life has created a flood of water problems. Two Franklin Institute researchers believe one solution might be right under our feet.

They've developed something called the "porous pavement," which allows water to seep through, rather than run off a sidewalk or road surface.

Edmund Thelen and L. Fielding Howe — who recently published a book about the properties, design and installation of porous pavement — say their pavement not only helps control floods, but also cleans and conserves the water draining through it.

For all the complex engineering involved in the design and construction, porous pavement is simply pavement with holes. Rainwater or melting snow seeps through the tiny openings at the pavement surface and slowly enters the underlying soil.

The water then re-enters nature's elaborate water cycle by settling in underground layers of porous rock.

As a result, road surface pollutants that would ordinarily be rushed to a storm sewer and flushed into a creek are absorbed into the soils where they are attacked by aerobic bacteria.

The researchers say their idea is one whose proverbial time has come.

"Fifteen, 20 years ago, conservationists were arguing against the kind of construction that helped cause floods," says Thelen, who developed the porous pavement concept over 10 years ago.

"Studies show that by the year 2000, the public will be clamoring for water conservation," he adds.

With backing from the Environmental Protection Agency — which is trying to determine the feasibility of using porous pavement to control urban flooding — the paving already has been installed at several locations, including demonstration sites in Philadelphia, Woodlands, Tex., and Tampa, Fla.

The "Ecological Parking Lot" at the University of Delaware in Newark, the oldest porous pavement site, won an award from the American Society of Landscape Architects.

Selling the concept, Howe and Thelen say, is no problem. Selling the pavement, however, might be another problem.

For one thing, it's a lot more expensive than conventional paving. Pourous pavement, they say, is custom designed for the under soil in given area.

"In computing the cost of construction," Howe counters, "you have to keep in mind that it's saving the cost of a whole drainage system."

But cost isn't the only problem.

"The major discouraging factor to use is that the oldest installation is five years old," Thelen says. "People will say: 'How do I know it will hold up for 30 years?' They say: 'Why didn't you install it somewhere 30 years ago so we'd know how durable it was?'

"Well, it's too late for that."

So far, all the demonstration sites are parking areas but the researchers say they hope porous pavement eventually will be used on streets and sidewalks.

family

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband has three brothers and one sister. He also has an 81-year-old mother who has been a widow for 15 years. She owns her own home, has money in the bank and gets a substantial pension. For the last four years she has been unable to live alone because she has a heart problem, so she has been spending one month at the home of each of her children.

She has never offered to pay anyone for her keep, so her daughter told her (a year ago) to get some money up or she couldn't stay with her. My mother-in-law refused this request, stating that she had taken care of her daughter when she was young, and now it was her daughter's turn to do for her.

Well, my mother-in-law hasn't been to her daughter's home for the last year. Now we sisters-in-laws are getting disgusted. Whose place is it to take care of this woman? The daughter's or the daughters'-in-law?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Obviously, the daughter "owes" her mother more than the daughters-in-law owe her, but it's not uncommon to find many daughters-in-law who do more for their mothers-in-law than their own daughters do.

DEAR ABBY: I hope Carl in Murrysville doesn't claim that his doggerel about Betty Jones ("No hits, no runs, no errors") is original. I heard a version of it in 1925 at the Old Howard, a renowned burlesque theatre in Boston. It went like this:

"Here lie the bones
Of Mary McGinnity
For twelve long years
She kept her virginity
And that's the record
In this vicinity."

BEN

DEAR ABBY: I hope you will select this letter for publication because it contains an important safety message.

Yesterday I was the first to arrive at the scene of an accident after a 4-year-old boy had been hit by a car.

No one knew where the child had come from. A few minutes later, several people walked across the highway from a picnic area to see what all the excitement was about. A man collapsed and a young woman became hysterical when they recognized the child. He was their son, who only moments before had been left "sleeping" on the back seat of their car.

I had to tell these grief-stricken parents that it was too late for a doctor.

Many people left the scene muttering, "I have learned a good lesson."

As the father of two young children, I learned one, too: Don't ever leave children unattended (sleeping or awake) in an automobile.

STILL IN SHOCK

DEAR STILL: Thanks for a very important "lesson."

Long Johns 'In'

NEW YORK (CP) — Starting this fall, long johns will no longer be an undercover item. Legwear designers say they are bringing them out in the open by designing long johns that are as pretty as they are practical for cold winter days. New designs include long johns that are lacy, crocheted and reversible.

Common ¢ents

By KATE MacQUEEN

When you smell a musty odor in a room, it could be due to damp carpeting, and not dampness caused by your freshly-cleaned carpet, either. "Browning" of carpet fibres can be caused when moisture in the air is trapped under a bed or sofa that's been in one position for a long time. One carpet manufacturer reports that carpeting less than two years old split for just that reason when a bed was moved.

When the children are content on a long trip, it's an easier ride for the parents, too. Try keeping the youngsters happy with a tape recording of some of their favorite stories or songs. You can always tape over the fun-and-games with fresh stories for the ride home. And you didn't have to spend much for the hours of fun on an old tape.

Can you tell me how many 1967 Camaro Z-28's were built? I have one and understand it's fast becoming collectable. A mechanic told me some years ago that the 1967 Z-28 engine — the 302 V-8 — wasn't as good as later models, though, because of certain internal differences. Also, can you tell me how many horsepower this engine puts out? — CAR HAPPY

DEAR HAPPY:

Chevrolet built exactly 602 Camaro Z-28's for 1967. The engine that year had 2-bolt mains instead of the 4-bolt mains adopted for 1968 and later. The 1967-69 Camaro Z-28 was rated at 290 horsepower, but these engines actually developed nearer 350 bhp in stock form and up to 550 bhp when modified for Trans Am racing.

DEAR MIKE:

My 1965 Dart 6 handles superbly, corners with spirit, and tracks down the road very accurately EXCEPT in a crosswind. Actually a crossBREEZE gives it fits. It prances and dances and needs constant correction. I've put brand-new radials on it, new shocks, and have had many alignments. Please help. — WANDERER

DEAR WANDERER:

Sounds like a caster problem. Try different settings — different from spec. You might also pump up your tires to about 40 psi to see if that helps. Sometimes radials do funny things.

Dear Mike: My 1969 Dart with the 273 V-8 uses lots of gas. I've traced the problem to a lazy choke. Replacing the original choke did no good. It's the well type, and there's simply no heat getting to it. A mechanic told me he'd have to take off the intake manifold and clean something out before the choke will work. What's the scoop? — THROTTLED

Dear Throttled: He's right. It's most likely a carbon-plugged crossover passage inside the intake manifold. The only way to clean it is to take off the manifold.

Dear Mike: The crankcase of my 1974 Duster is supposed to hold four quarts of oil normally and five when I change the filter. Mine holds only four when I change the filter. Five put the dipstick way above the full mark. How many quarts should I put in when I change oil and filter? — TOPPED UP

Dear Topped: Five quarts. Are you letting your engine run for 5-10 minutes after you refill the crankcase? It takes that long for the fifth quart to fill the filter.

LASER BEAMS SAVE TEETH?

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Laser beams may provide a permanent answer to the problem of tooth decay, a 21-year-old University of Utah researcher says.

Ceramic engineer Lygia Stewart said she may be on the track of a major dental breakthrough to provide lifetime protection against tooth decay by using a mini-laser.

She said her work shows promising results in the use of a carbon dioxide laser to permanently seal a protective compound around decay-prone chewing areas of teeth.

"Our work has progressed to the point where its feasibility can no longer be doubted," the University of Utah chemistry honors graduate said.

The goal is to provide protection for the pit and fissure areas of molars, she said. These areas are vulnerable to decay because they tend to trap food particles and are hard to clean.

Ms. Stewart said she hopes the result of her studies, funded by the National Institute of Dental Research, will be lifetime protection against tooth decay.

She has tested several hundred compounds as potential sealants in what she described as a previously untried approach to the tooth decay problem.

She said the most successful substance so far has been a white powder known as hydroxyapatite. It has proved durable and is nearly the same as tooth enamel, she said.

Modern weather forecasters have at their disposal many costly instruments and apparatuses which help them in their demanding task. However, even with simple equipment you can become an amateur weatherman.

Instruction and Information Sheets Determining The Wind Direction, Etcetera tell you how to construct a simple wind direction instrument, a simple instrument for collecting and measuring rainfall (a rain gauge) and an instrument to measure air pressure (a simple barometer). You will also learn of a method to construct a simple instrument that measures the speed of the wind.

Another sheet discusses Weather and RADAR. In case you didn't know, RADAR is the abbreviation of Radio Detecting and Ranging.

Other Information Sheets deal with weather satellites, air pollution and weather, hurricanes, tornadoes and other natural phenomena.

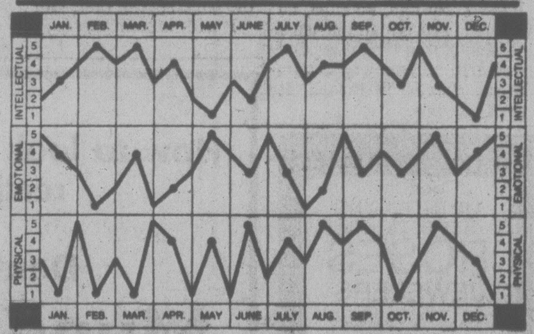
Bio-dex

By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

©BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	Another person's misery upsets you. Do what you can to keep your own spirits up.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	On a neutral cycle you're tempted to let things slide. It's time to work extra hard.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Your mother's words are a source of strength. Share your good fortune with a special friend.

Judgement is based on many factors and many people use their Bio-dex readouts to help them make the right decision at the right time. Your intellectual level is of prime importance when making a decision, but don't forget that your emotional and physical readouts are also important. Try to avoid making an important decision if two or more curves are below three points. Use your Bio-dex as an indicator of your "judgement level".

Palsy Victim Gets Wheels

EDMONTON (CP) — Bicycles are fashionable these days but for cerebral palsy victim Arlene Aitkenhead a new quadcycle device, designed by a friend of her father, is more than a passing fad.

The cycle has brought her a new mobility and freedom she had not dreamed of.

Cerebral palsy attacks the central nervous system and is characterized by spastic paralysis and defective motor ablity. In Arlene's case it means near immobility.

The 13-year-old, Grade-6 student used to get around with the aid of a 'spider walker' but has outgrown even its limited usefulness.

Enter Lenny Kucher owner of an Edmonton metalworking company. Kucher, along with Arlene's father Dave Aitkenhead and Harvey Hendricksen, drew up plans for the cycle in about 24 hours and refined it over a period of weeks.

The machine, made from parts of a three-speed and a 10-speed bike, has modified steering control and no pedals. A special installation of the wheels allows Arlene to negotiate curbs easily.

For Arlene, it means her world will expand beyond her home and the Glenrose School Hospital.

"She's a well-liked little girl, accepted by the people in the neighborhood and the kids, too," said Kucher.

Good Day With the Reins Gives Dave a Solid Lead

Baby may need new shoes, and Dave Jungquist is doing his darndest to make sure they'll be available.

Jungquist, only 28 but a veteran of 13 harness-racing campaigns, has taken a firm grip in the race for driving honors at the 54-day harness meeting at Sandown Park after an outstanding performance Saturday.

Jungquist, whose wife is expecting a baby, recorded four victories and a second-place finish to highlight the 13th-day program.

Now with 17 victories, Jungquist is seven ahead of Joe Hudon and Jim Mohorich. Jungquist also has a leading 11 second-place finishes.

Born in Burlington, Wash., and following in the footsteps of his grandfather and father, Jungqist was only 16 when he entered his first race at Patterson Park in Ladner. He campaigned in Ohio and California before deciding to return to the Pacific Northwest last year.

Jungquist scored Saturday with Mark Baker, Andys Captain, Dusty Counsellor — in succession — before finishing with Come Back D in the eighth race.

Jungquist started the day with a second-place finish with Valley Jim, a nine-year-old gelding that hasn't won in two years. But with Jungquist handling the reins, Valley Jim got out in front early only to be caught at the wire by Sir Bob.

Hudon recorded his 11th success by piloting Little Pence to victory in the featured ninth race.

Fan interest continues to build in the standarbreds. Saturday's turnout of 1,495 fans pushed $86,184, a new high for the meet, through the mutuels.

DRAKES TOP FLAG LOOP

Ex-Drakes blanked Shop Easy 6-0, Hollywood Park nipped Juan de Fuca Vampires by the same count and Black Crush beat Pacific Logging 20-8 Sunday as the winners finished 1-2-3, respectively, atop Flag Football League standings at the end of regular-season play.

In other games, Colwood RCMP blanked Coach Lines 6-0 and Remnants topped John Stubbs, also by 6-0.

Pacific Logging finished fourth to grab the final berth in playdowns, scheduled to be held in two weeks time.

VISTAS TURN BACK YOUTHFUL SQUAD

Experience prevailed over the enthusiasm and energy of youth Saturday as the Vancouver Island Vistas defeated British Columbia's under-19 selects 4-2 in an exhibition soccer match at Royal Athletic Park.

Dan Lomas, Mark Robb and Frank Woods fired goals to provide the Islanders side with a 3-0 first-half lead. John Leier added Vistas' other goal.

Dave McCullagh, on a breakaway, and Dave McCaig, on a penalty shot, scored the juniors' goals.

Vistas, still undefeated after five starts in the Pacific Northwest League, will clash with a side that is deep in experience when they play Vancouver Whitecap Reserves in a league game at Royal Athletic Park Friday, starting at 7:30 p.m. Vistas trail first-place Pegasus by two points.

Cats Clip Esks

HAMILTON (CP) — Second-string quarterback Tom Shuman tossed two touchdown passes to lead Hamilton Tiger-Cats to an easy 18-8 victory over Edmonton Eskimos in a Canadian Football League exhibition game Saturday night.

Shuman played the opening three quarters and looked impressive, lifting Hamilton's pre-season record to 2-1. The loss dropped Edmonton to 1-2.

Shuman hit tight end Lawrie Skolrood with a nine-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and connected on an 11-yarder to Leif Pettersen in the third quarter. Nick Jambrosic's field goal, two conversions and a single completed the Hamilton scoring.

Runing back Jim Germany scored Edmonton's lone touchdown on a three-yard run in the third quarter.

'Ugly Ankles' Go Fastest in Plate

TORONTO (CP) — Regal Embrace, a $15,000 yearling reject in 1976 because of ugly ankles, ended a Queen's Plate drought for E. P. Taylor with a neck victory Saturday under a clever ride by Sandy Hawley.

Hawley, recording his 86th win in 42 days at Woodbine race track and his fourth Plate victory, took over the lead with Regal Embrace shortly after the start of the 1¼-mile race, stretched his margin to two lengths at the mile pole, then held off a fast-closing Overskate in the $164,775 race.

"He ran very strong the whole way," said Hawley, four times the leading rider in North America. "Going down the backstretch I just couldn't believe how much horse I had."

Overskate's jockey, Robin Platts, who won last year's race with Jack Stafford's Sound Reason, said: "My horse ran his eyeballs out trying to catch him."

It was the first Plate win for the 77-year-old Taylor since 1964, when Northern Dancer took the race.

The 119th running of North America's oldest annually run stakes attracted a crowd of 31,522 in perfect weather, resulting in a total mutuel pool of $3,001,527, a single-day wagering record in Canada.

But the star of the afternoon was Regal Embrace, the ugly duckling who earned the nickname Moose around the backstretch last year. The son of Vice Regent and grandson of Northern Dancer won his fifth race in six lifetime starts—he didn't race as a two-year-old—and tied the Plate record with a time of 2:02 on a fast track.

Regal Embrace was sent off as the 5-to-2 second choice and paid $7.10, $3.30 and $2.80. Overskate, the 7-to-5 favorite owned by Stafford, returned $2.90 and $2.50 and combined with the winner for an exactor of $17.80.

L'Alezane, he only filly in the race, placed third in the 11-horse field of three-year-old Canadian breds. She was 7½ lengths behind Overskate and three-quarters of a length ahead of 99-to-1 shot Colourful Conn.

Then came Preacher Joe, Lucky Colonel S., High Roller, Pleasure Bent, Maple Grove, Portage Bay and Forty Bye Two. Lucky Colonel S. and Forty Bye Two ran as an entry for Conn Smythe.

Hawley tied the record of four Plate victories held by veteran Avelino Gomez. It was Hawley's seventh Plate mount in his career.

Regal Embrace earned a Plate record of $107,090 to increase his lifetime earnings to $125,394. Second place was worth $32,951.

The previous single-day wagering record was $2,940,813, set in the 1976 Plate. The attendance was down slightly from last year and well below the record of 40,137, set in 1973.

The daily double pool was another Canadian record of $238,309, surpassing the $224,820 in the 1976 Plate.

VICTORIA VETS BEST

BURNABY — Victoria veterans were too much for Mainland rivals Saturday, cruising to a 3-0 victory over Vancouver in the final game of the annual oldtimers' soccer series between teams from the two cities.

Bill Brown was the scoring leader for the Victorians, eluding Vancouver defenders to rap in a pair of goals. Barry Sadler notched the other tally for the Islanders, who held a 1-0 lead at halftime. Vancouver, the series winner last year, was beaten 3-1 earlier in Victoria and lost the two-game, 1978 competition 6-1.

So Many Fine Plants

GARDENING
hilda beastall

There are so many fine plants which seem indispensable for gardens which cannot have daily care in summer, that it is difficult to single out individuals. However one of the choicest is the Angel's Fishing-rod or Dierama pendula.

In this case the common name is indeed descriptive for the effect at a distance or closeup is of an airy mass of thin pale green with wiry stems bending under the weight of small flowers.

Growing from a thickened rootstock which is not a bulb but more like a corn, the leaves are long and narrow. A small young plant will have two foot leaves, a half inch wide.

It is when the flower spikes begin to grow that interest really increases, for they reach the height of four feet or more before opening the flower buds.

The flower stem is like a fine wire. It may be gently bent right down to the ground. Indeed when several of the bell-like flowers have opened, their weight arches the wiry stem gracefully.

Hence the name Angel's Fishing-rod is perhaps appropriate. But this plant needs a pool for perfection of garden design. Some gardens will have a plastic pool of fair size and Dierama fits in beautifully at the side after a few year's of growth.

At any stage of growth however, this plant gives a delightful effect by even the tiniest pool. An enamel or galvanized tub 20 inces across kept killed with water during summer is attractive if set down into the ground and its edge masked with a few stones or pieces of rock. Put a piece of rock into the pool just in case it attracts birds to drink. They like to perch on something in water that is not too deep.

Given a well drained soil for winter, with humus enough to hold sufficient moisture for summer, this plant presents no difficulties. With occasional good soakings during summer, the flowers open in succession but if allowed to become dry at root level the buds dry before opening. In a completely sunny spot however, a mulch of rotted compost kept well moistened will prevent this happening.

The flowers are a mauve pink, but there is another species, Dierama Pulcherrima, with reddish-purple flowers which is very handsome; a white form exists but this I have not seen.

Division of a large clump may be done in sring just as new growth appears. The exact time is not easy to arrive at, since in normal winters the green leaves retain their color. Only a few of the oldest become hard and completely dry each year.

A successful way to gain a new plant is to detach pieces from the perimeter of the large clump without actually lifting the whole mass. The new divisions soon take hold and make rapid headway to producing flower spikes within two to three years.

Once growing well, leave undisturbed, removing only the old dead leaves by cutting off at ground level, and also the old flower stems in late fall. Another easy care plant.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD
CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Friday; 8:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

Release Boy, Pope Pleads

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI Sunday appealed for the release of an 11-year-old Sardinian boy who offered himself to kidnappers last April in place of his sick older brother.

As the 80-year-old pontiff addressed 5,000 people from his balcony overlooking St. Peter's Square, hundreds of police were searching Sardinia for another child kidnapped Saturday night.

The pope made no reference to the latest abduction but said the April 23 kidnapping of Mauro Carassale was a "sign of our times."

Mauro's parents have already paid a ransom of $138,000 but the kidnappers are demanding an undisclosed higher sum.

The white-robed pontiff in his regular Sunday noon address said: "A sign of our time in which the conflict between good and evil is brought dramatically into display is that of Mauro Carassale, a child of 11 who, seeing his elder brother Enrico seized by violent kidnappers, offered himself saying: 'Take me, my brother is sick, I will come with you.'"

Mauro was taken by the three masked bandits from the home of his father, a furniture merchant, at Olbia on Sardinia's tourist Emerald Coast.

"Olbia, Sardinia and the nation trembles," said the pope. "Dear Mauro, we are all close to you. You are a symbol, little lamb, of innocent goodness and what is happening to you is an example to all of heroism and self-sacrifice for an ailing brother. Such evil, such avarice against you reveals the cowardice of which certain groups are capable."

He said Mauro's gesture in becoming a "voluntary victim" was one of "stupendous and incomparable generosity."

Saturday night four masked men in a car snatched Luca Locci, 7, from his bicycle as he played with friends at Macomer in Sardinia.

They timed the abduction to coincide with the televising of the world cup soccer game between Italy and Brazil, making their getaway much easier since streets were deserted.

Luca is the seventh child kidnapped in Sardinia since 1966.

ETHIOPIAN JETS BOMB SOMALIA

MOGADISHU (AP) — Ethiopian jet fighters bombed two northwestern Somalia villages Sunday in their second air attack against civilian targets in four days, the Somali government announced today.

Three MiG-21 and MiG-23 planes struck at the villages of Baleh Haanood and Abdulkadir, killing one child, severely wounding four persons and destroying 14 houses, the defence ministry said.

The government said previously that six Ethiopian planes attacked the border town of Borma and surrounding villages last Thursday, killing 12 persons and injuring 41 others.

Diplomatic observers here believe Ethiopia is making the attacks in retaliation for the guerrilla war in its southeastern Ogaden region between Cuban-backed government forces and ethnic Somali rebels supported by Somalia.

THE STORY OF THE HOT DOG VENDOR

There was once a man who lived by the side of the road and sold hot dogs.

He sold very good hot dogs.

He put up signs along the highway and advertised in the newspaper telling how good they were.

He stood on the side of the road and cried:

"Buy a hot dog, Mister?"

And people bought.

He increased his meat and bun orders.

He bought a bigger stove to take care of his trade.

He finally got his son home from college to help him out.

But then something happened.

His son said, "Father, haven't you been listening to the news and reading the papers?

There's a big recession.

The domestic situation is worse."

Whereupon the father thought

"Well, my son's been to college, he listens to the radio and watches TV and he reads and he ought to know."

So the father cut down on his meat and bun orders, took down his signs and cancelled his newspaper ads.

And his hot dog sales fell overnight.

"You're right, son" the father said to the boy.

"We certainly are in the middle of a great recession."

MOSCOW — Christina Onassis said today that a British newspaper report she will marry a Russian bureaucrat is "absolutely preposterous."

The London Daily Express, in a report from a correspondent in Moscow, says that Miss Onassis came to the U.S.S.R. capital to marry 40-year-old Nikolai Kaozov, the head of the tanker division of the Russian freight organization, Sovfrakht.

WINNIPEG — The physically handicapped generally don't get an "equal chance to flourish" in Canada, Gordon Fairweather, chief commissioner of the federal Human Rights Commission, says.

He said federal human rights legislation prohibits discrimination in employment on the grounds of physical handicaps, but handicapped persons still face discriminatory obstacles to finding jobs.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Gold and silver gifts arrived Sunday at the royal palace for the wedding this week of Princess Caroline, daughter of Prince Rainier III and the former Hollywood actress Grace Kelly.

Caroline, 21, is to marry 38-year-old Paris financier-playboy Philippe Junot in ceremonies in the palace Wednesday and Thursday.

The gifts that have already arrived include a gold dinner service from the French community in Monte Carlo, a chest of silverware from the native Monegasques, a silver vase from the Italian colony and a jewel-studded necklace from the Greek community.

The Bank of Monaco sent the couple a pair of 18th-century French armchairs.

Hundreds of bouquets of flowers were delivered to the palace. Monaco authorities said Princess Grace is personally supervising the unwrapping and arranging of the flowers.

Caroline spent the day in her palace room writing thank-you notes. Junot has a room in another wing of the stone palace in this small principality on the French Riviera.

They entertained some personal friends for lunch but made no public appearances.

The sun shone and temperatures were in the 80s, with forecasts of glorious weather for the two-day wedding rites that will include religious and civil ceremonies.

The wedding is to be held behind closed palace doors with only a few invited guests. One reason for downplaying the wedding, reliable reports said, is that the family is reluctant about Caroline marrying a man 17 years her senior and with a reputation as a playboy.

No commemorative postage stamps or special souvenir family portraits are being issued. "Princess Caroline is not in line for the throne and so this is not a national event," explained a Monaco official.

Caroline's younger brother, Albert, is Rainier's heir, although Caroline would take the throne if he abdicated.

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Hyden, a coal-mining town of 500 nestled in Kentucky's mountains, is busily preparing for a weekend visit by former President Richard Nixon, his first public engagement since resigning his office.

A banner welcoming the former president to Leslie County has been stretched over U.S. Highwy 421, which bisects the town and serves as its principal street.

The expected two-day visit will be Nixon's first public speaking appearance since he left the presidency in 1974. Sunday, he will dedicate the $2.5 million Richard M. Nixon Recreational Complex and Gymnasium named in his honor.

Leslie County Judge-Executive C. Allen Muncy, a Republican who invited the ex-president to come, said he is pleased with the response to approximately 4,000 invitations to attend the event. He has estimated a crowd of 20,000 to 30,000 may come to see the former chief executive.

Kuwaitis Need Adair

KUWAIT — Kuwait has appealed to Texan oil fire troubleshooter Red Adair for help in capping a drilling platform blaze that has sent gas flames rushing 250 feet into the air since Friday.

State Minister Abdel Aziz Hussein told reporters Sunday the government decided on the move after Kuwaiti fire brigades battled for more than 40 hours in an unsuccessful attempt to bring the fire under control.

He said the fire was at an exploratory drilling platform at the Burqan field in the south, Kuwait's largest.

A Kuwait Oil Company official predicted the fire could not be brought under control for two to three weeks.

Tanker Blaze Out of Control

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A 784-foot Liberian-registered tanker with 35 crew members aboard caught fire today in the Gulf of Mexico and asked for emergency assistance to help control the blaze, the Coast Guard reported.

The ship, the Amoco Texas City, was located about 210 miles southwest of New Orleans.

A nearby vessel rushed to the scene. The Coast Guard dispatched a plane from Corpus Christi, Texas, and a helicopter from New Orleans.

Coast Guard spokesman Bob Baeten said the crew members were reported safe, but the fire was out of control and the engine room was filled with smoke.

"They can't activate their foam system," said Baeten. "There's a very high temperature in the engine room. They can't get down to it."

The first report of trouble was received at 8:40 a.m. but the seriousness of the problem was not immediately apparent.

"At first they didn't request any assistance and now they do," Baeten said. "They requested a tug or some vessel in the area that has foam capabilities to fight the fire."

The ship sent a radio message about 10:30 a.m. saying it would not be transmitting further information, "apparently because they want to concentrate their efforts on getting the fire out," Baeten said.

The vessel, which was owned by Amoco Transport Co., had unloaded its cargo in Lake Charles, La., several days earlier, Baeten said.

A spokesman said the tailor was attacked by three whites early Sunday and died later of a heart attack.

Racial clashes occurred in the Bengali district of Brick Lane a week ago when 200 whites rampaged through the area beating bystanders and smashing Bengali shop windows.

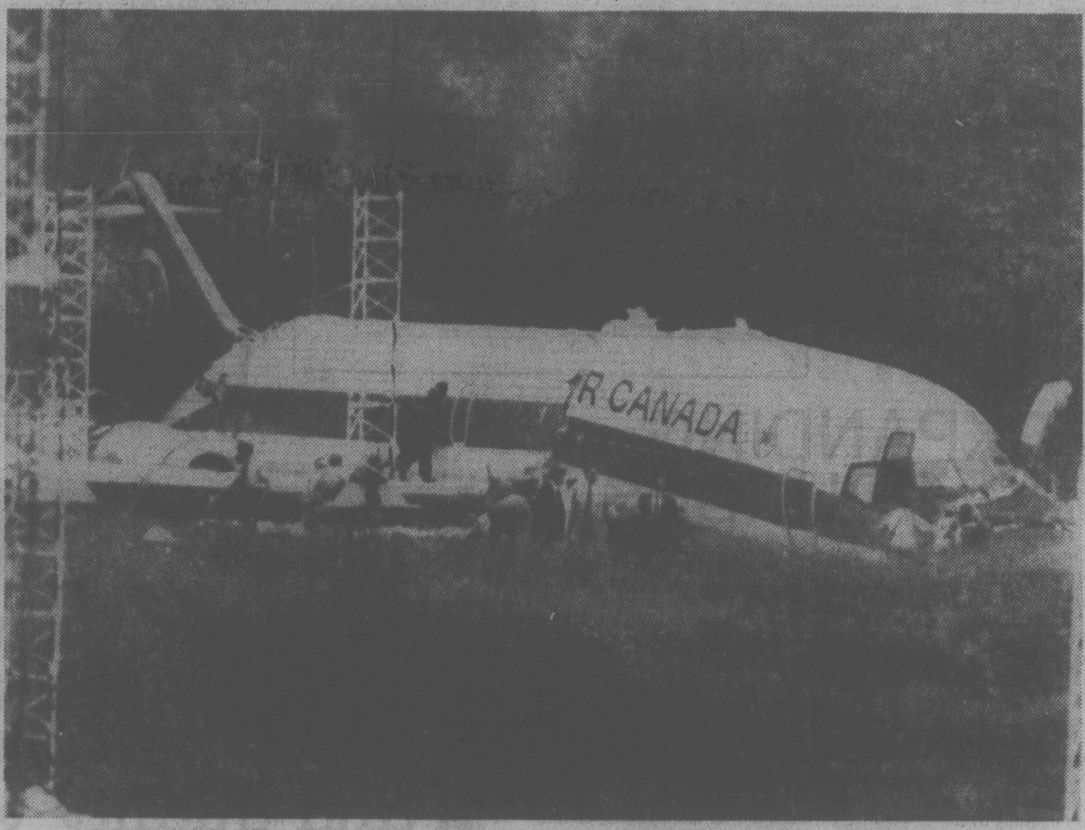
3 Killed In Jet Crash



Air Canada DC-9 after sliding off Toronto runway and crashing into ravine

Times News Services

TORONTO (CP) — Three male passengers were killed and more than 100 injured today when an Air Canada DC-9 jet shot off a runway at Toronto International Airport, dropped about 40 feet into a ravine and broke into three pieces.

Dr. Thomas Daglish, Peel regional coroner, said two people were pronounced dead at the scene. Several passengers were severely injured, most with broken bones, he said. At least 20 passengers walked away from the crash site.

Many of those treated at hospital had only minor injuries and were released.

Paul Roach, a Transport Canada spokesman, confirmed that three persons had died, but the names were not released.

The airport tower said the plane never left the ground, but slid into the ravine after the aborted takeoff.

The DC-9, Air Canada Flight 189 which originated in Ottawa, was bound for Winnipeg and Vancouver and was carrying 102 passengers and a crew of five.

Cause of the crash has not been determined, but early reports said one of the jet's rear-mounted engines had lost power just before takeoff.

The jet left a huge scour mark at the end of runway 23, where the pilot attempted to steer away from hydro cables and pylons.

A ministry of transport official said the pilot's effort saved many passengers.

There was no fire or explosion but Dr. Daglish said the crash site was dangerous because of the fuel still on board. Firefighters from neighboring municipalities and airport emergency crews doused the plane's wings with foam to try to avoid an explosion.

Within 15 minutes of the crash, six doctors, including the coroner, were on the scene.

Bobby Gimby, a bandleader known as Canada's pied piper, escaped the crash with minor cuts to his forehead.

Gimby, who became famous in Centennial Year for his song Can-na-da, which he performed dressed as a pied piper, said passengers were in a state of pandemonium when the crash occurred.

"I was sitting right up front and saw it all. I just held on tight.

"I guess I was one of the lucky ones."

He said the plane "fell straight down, just like going over a cliff."

Rev. Gerald Cochran, a Roman Catholic priest of the Church of the Transfiguration of Our Lord, gave last rites to two men.

The crash scene, he said, was one of "perfect calm and incredible fortitude."

"I was incredibly impressed at people's attitudes. Those who were not too badly injured were walking around helping the more seriously injured before doctors arrived."

Rhodesia Reports Guerrilla Skirmish

SALISBURY (AP) — Rhodesia reported a border clash with black nationalist guerrillas as an Anglican bishop called on Britain to send troops to hunt down the killers of 12 whites at a mission in another part of the country.

The military command said its troops exchanged rocket, mortar and small-arms fire with about 100 guerrillas Sunday morning on the border with Botswana, where guerrillas of Joshua Nkomo's Zimbabwe African Peoples' Union (ZAPU) are based.

A communique said the firing stopped when Botswana forces intervened, and there were no Rhodesian casualties. Guerrilla casualties, if any, were not known.

The guerrillas are fighting a war against white control of Rhodesia. An estimated 1,000 of Nkomo's guerrillas operate in western Rhodesia from Zambia and Botswana, while more than 5,000 insurgents of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union (ZANU) based in Mozambique are fighting in eastern Rhodesia.

Mugabe's men were blamed by the Rhodesian military command for Friday's slayings at an eastern mission of seven British missionaries and five children including a three-week-old girl.

Mugabe, in a broadcast from the Mozambique capital of Maputo, denied his guerrillas were responsible. Instead, he blamed the Rhodesian army's white-led mainly-black Selous Scouts, a tracker unit previously accused by the guerrillas of most atrocities against civilians. He said the missionaries were slain to divert attention from two reported Rhodesian raids into Mozambique last Thursday.

The victims of the most savage attack in the war against vulnerable missions were bludgeoned and bayonetted to death. Two white adults survived: one a woman who was in critical condition in a Salisbury hospital, the other a man who was undetected by the killers.

Rebellion Fells Yemeni Chief

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Salim Robaye Ali resigned as president of South Yemen today after army and air force units rebelled in that country, the only Marxist-governed republic in the oil-rich Arabian Peninsula, the Iraqi news agency reported.

The news agency said in a dispatch from the South Yemeni capital of Aden that the central committee of the National Front, the country's hard-line, pro-Soviet ruling body, accepted Ali's resignation and stripped him of all other posts.

It said he resigned after a day-long bombardment of the presidential palace in Aden.

150 N-ARRESTS

Times News Services

At least 150 anti-nuclear demonstrators were arrested Sunday night after they occupied the construction site of two nuclear power plants in Satsop, Wash., the Grays Harbor County sheriff's office reported.

The demonstrators approached the 275-acre Washington Public Power Supply System (WPPSS) site from four directions.

No injuries or violence was reported, although some demonstrators went limp and had to be dragged to buses.

In the eastern U.S., the focus of the anti-nuclear movement shifted today from the construction site of the $2.3 billion Seabrook, N.H., nuclear power plant to government hearings on the environmental safety of the 2,300 megawatt plant.

At least 10,000 foes of nuclear power rallied at Seabrook Sunday in a demonstration organizers said would gain the attention of the nuclear industry.

BANK STRIKES POSSIBLE

VANCOUVER (CP) — Members of the United Bank Workers union employed at five British Columbia branches of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce decided Sunday to hold strike votes within two weeks.

The federal labor department recently ruled that contract disputes with three banks, including the Commerce, must go to conciliation.

UBW president Charlotte Johnston said she expected the conciliation attempts to fail, leaving the union in a legal position to strike.

Johnston said strike action would be taken against the Commerce because it had been the slowest.

The five branches involved are in Ganges in the Gulf Islands, Port McNeil on Vancouver Island as well as Gibsons Landing, Mission and Langley near Vancouver.

Bomb Blast Ruins Art Works

VERSAILLES, France (AP) — A powerful bomb planted behind a statue exploded early today in the Palace of Versailles, wrecking three rooms of Napoleonic art, damaging seven others and slightly injuring a guard.

There were no reports of damage to the Hall of Mirrors, where the First World War treaty was signed, or to the royal apartments, the opera house and the chapel that are the chief tourist attractions in the vast 17th-century palace 20 kilometres southwest of Paris.

The Palace of Versailles was built between 1661 and 1682 for King Louis XIV, the "Sun King." For more than 100 years, until the French Revolution, Versailles was the seat of government of France as well as the home of the royal court.

The furnishings of the palace were dispersed and destroyed or sold during the French Revolution, but in recent years extensive restoration has been under way.

Three militant groups — two leftist and one Breton separatist — claimed responsibility for setting the bomb. But police gave little credence to any of the claims.

Seven hours after the 2 a.m. bomb explosion, police were tipped that another bomb was ready to go off in one of the two Trianon palaces in the palace park. Bomb experts searched both the Grand Trianon and the Petit Trianon, and some art works were removed, but the tip apparently was a hoax.

The explosion occurred in the Midi Wing of the main palace, to the left of the front entrance, and wrecked the three-room Empire Suite on the ground floor which was opened to the public May 16 by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing.

"Three of the paintings are reduced to fragments and are irreparable, including a very famous painting of Napoleon awarding the first Legion of Honor medals," Jean Dumont, the chief architect for the palace, told reporters.

"Other paintings are damaged but probably can be restored. The sculpted woodwork of the rooms has been shattered and there is at least six months' solid restoration work."

Dumont said the bomb blasted a hole — said by other sources to measure 10 by 12 feet — into the floor of the Gallery of Battles on the second floor. "But there does not appear to be other damage in the Gallery of Battles," he said.

No monetary estimate was available of the damage.

Officials said it was the first such attack they could recall on the palace.

New Prison Boss Tough but Compassionate

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A former commando in the Danish underground during the Second World War and 20-year veteran of the provincial corrections service today took charge of the Vancouver Island Regional Corrections Centre on Wilkinson Road.

David Schultz replaces Harry Bacon, who has been acting director of the centre since director Hal McGillivray was promoted last year to a senior management post in the Vancouver Island region.

Schultz, 53, comes to Wilkinson Road after three years as principal officer of the notorious East Wing at Oakalla; a maximum security area set aside for hard-rock sentenced inmates and persons waiting trail on serious crimes.

There, Schultz had 220 inmates under his charge; at Wilkinson Road, he'll have 60 to 80, with roughly the same mix of sentenced and remand prisoners.

Schultz referred to the past three years as the happiest and most productive he has spent so far in the service. Why? Because of the challenges.

Schultz relishes challenge, and that's what "Wilkie" is. Corrections officials have repeatedly said the Edwardian structure, built 65 years ago as an asylum for the criminally insane, is totally inadequate as a prison by modern standards.

Even Schultz, who last set foot inside the building in 1965, says he'll be surprised if the facilities meet little more than the minimum standards set by the United Nations charter on treatment of prisoners.

While there's nothing Schultz can do about the physical deficiencies of the building — that's a political decision — he aims to run a tight ship.

He emphasizes good communications between staff and inmates, consistency and compassion. His priorities are to meet the needs of the inmates within the mandate he's been given, and try to ensure they leave the institution in a better frame of mind than when they entered.

He doesn't believe in rehabilitation programs as such. Rehabilitation has to come from within a person, he said.

Blunt and outspoken, Schultz projects an image of a tough disciplinarian who expects to get as much in return as he's prepared to give — which is his all.

He lets you know precisely where you stand with him.

He doesn't care much for the news media, calls reporters "jackals" and, wagging his finger, threatens if you cross him once you'll never have his cooperation again.

His opinion of social workers is even harsher.

But Schultz isn't out to make friends.

"It doesn't matter what people think about me," he said. "It's what I accomplish that counts.

"Deep down everyone wants to be loved. But in this business, it's impossible."

Essentially Schultz comes across as a man's man, a product of the war in Europe. Somehow he managed to survive the holocaust, and while he's reticent about those nightmarish experiences, you get the feeling when he speaks they're what shaped him into what he is today.

Born in Riga, Latvia, Schultz received his early education at a German school in Estonia where his father served with the Danish foreign service.

He was in Copenhagen aiming for a career in business management when the war broke out.

He joined the Danish resistance movement and throughout the war darted between Sweden and Denmark carrying out clandestine missions. He was taught commando skills at a secret war-time training camp in central Sweden.

In 1943, after a harrowing escape from Denmark, he was picked up by Swedish authorities and spent five or six weeks in a prison where he was grilled and beaten.

They were at the point of deporting him back to Denmark where he faced certain death when they suddenly decided to release him.

The experience was a lesson in survival. He noticed those who didn't make it were those who caved in or gave up. He did neither. He kept his body active. He forced himself to do mental exercises. He learned how to withstand pain. Mostly, it was discipline that saved him, and he's never forgotten.

After the war Schultz worked as a ship's chandler in Copenhagen and in 1951 he immigrated to Canada, settling in North Vancouver.

He worked on tugs, got laboring jobs and started his own trucking business. In 1958 he saw an advertisement for jail guards. He went to the closest prison, knocked on the door and asked to speak to the warden about a job.

He was posted to Haney. His first supervisor was leader of the provincial NDP and former premier Dave Barrett, then a social worker with the corrections branch.

In the 20 years he's put in, three persons stand out as sources of inspiration, he said.

All three were inmates and native Indians.

One, a sullen youth, was talked by Schultz into leading a rescue team up a rugged mountain side to reach a Boy Scout who had fallen and broken his leg. For his achievement, the Indian won respect and gained self-worth, Schultz said.

The other, a giant of a man, helped Schultz fight a fire at Aoulette River. Grabbing a hose and shielding Schultz from the intense heat, the man refused to budge until he'd put out the blaze. The performance, said Schultz, was nothing short of heroic.

The third entered Alouette River, a hopeless drunk. After six months he was released and went on to become one of B.C.'s foremost native dancers.

All three had this much in common — they overcame seemingly impossible obstacles, and, through their experiences in the prison system, learned how to survive.

"Every staff member needs these kinds of experiences to charge his batteries. There is such a lot of negative vibrations in jails."

Schultz, who is married with four children — all adopted and of mixed race — said when he first came to Canada he was so grateful he felt obligated to make a contribution. The corrections service proved the answer.

"If I've touched just one man, it'll make everything I've ever done worthwhile."

QUICKEST WAY to get a youngster's attention is to dress like a clown and pass out a balloon or two. And that's exactly what clowns Glenn Molson (left), Christie Evans (centre) and Robyn Leslie did at Vic West elementary to let everybody know that Victoria's summer parks and playground program starts July 4. It features softball, swimming, arts and crafts games and a summer carnival. Youngsters aged 5 to 13 who want to participate should call 385-5711. (Bill Halkett photo)

Couvelier Denies Plant Land Limit

Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier today denied that he has ever told a would-be tool manufacturer he could acquire only seven acres for $700,000 in the proposed Saanich industrial park on Interurban Road.

Saanich contractor-investor Nick Liberto made that claim Saturday, but Couvelier described the statement as absolutely false.

"I have never talked to Mr. Liberto about price or in terms of limiting the acreage he wanted," the mayor said today.

Couvelier said his only reference to price was the one he has made publicly — that serviced land in the 125-acre industrial park would sell for $2 per square foot, or $86,000 per acre.

Liberto, who with partner Dennis Dorosz plans to establish a plant to manufacture a new drilling bit for the oil industry, said he only learned last week that the land for which he was negotiating was also being considered by Saanich for an industrial park site.

The location is on Crown land next to Camosun College on Interurban.

Liberto said the company would need at least 30 acres but Saanich has indicated it could expect only seven acres, at a price of $700,000.

He said unless Saanich is more co-operative the company will be forced to locate its factory in either Alberta or Texas.

Couvelier also told the Times today that Liberto's claim to have received a lease undertaking from Economic Development Minister Don Phillips is at odds with the assurances received by Saanich from the B.C. Development Corporation.

"Ald. Vantreight, Ald. Cass, Mr. Tremayne (municipal administrator) and I went to Vancouver on Friday and completed our preliminary negotiations with BCDC," he said.

"The minister (Phillips) was there all day and we came away with our objective attained. Draw your own conclusions," he added.

Couvelier said that armed with a letter of understanding from the corporation, he hoped for council approval of the industry park proposal at an in-camera meeting later today.

The mayor said earlier that the land banking scheme would give a windfall benefit to all Saanich taxpayers, and provide "at least a million dollars a year as a tax base."

Price Right On Saanich Bubble Bids

Five companies including a Victoria firm — Victoria Paving Ltd. — have submitted tenders for building Saanich's proposed indoor tennis centre and the prices are "right in the ballpark," a municipal official said today.

Saanich recreation director Bill Young said he has had only a preliminary look at the bids opened Friday, but they confirm his earlier predictions that the tennis structure can be built for around $240,000.

Purchasing agent Mrs. E.M. Bowering said the tendered prices for the complete package, including four tennis courts and air-support structure, range from $222,450 to $265,900.

Two of the firms also submitted bids for constructing a steel-frame building, and one of these was competitive with the bubble prices.

Bowering said as the tenders contain a number of options and variables, it would be difficult and perhaps confusing to give a breakdown by name and price.

Young said the information must be analyzed for a full report to council next week.

The Racquet Club of Victoria recently announced plans to build a five-court tennis bubble. But Mayor Mel Couvelier says he believes this project will not eliminate the need for a Saanich-owned tennis facility because the Racquet Club courts will be fully used by members.

Although it earlier selected a site alongside the Cedar Hill Community Centre for the tennis centre, council deferred a final go-ahead for the project pending receipt of tenders and confirmation that the facility could pay for itself within five years.

Freelance Gutted By 'Rebels'

Inability of the Cuna Indian chiefs to control their young people and talk of revolution among the Indians resulted in the loss of the provincial government's 100-foot schooner Freelance, Dr. Philip Ney said today.

Home after spending 10 days trying to salvage what is left of the 71-year-old gaff-rigged vessel, hung on a coral reef in the San Blas Islands, east of the Panama Canal, Ney said 20 to 30 young Cuna Indians had stripped the vessel.

He said they had hacked away portholes, doors and hatches and destroyed everything they could.

"They literally took her apart. They made a total job on it," he said.

"The Freelance was a victim of a peculiar combination of events. The chiefs were very upset that their young people had done this to the ship.

"There is talk of revolution. They were given the land by King Philip of Spain in the 16th century and they want to secede from Panama."

He said police who stood by without any attempt to stop the looting and destruction probably did not want to have something precipitate a revolution.

Ney said the Panamanian government should be made to compensate B.C. for the total value of the lost vessel.

Ney, representing the Quest Star Society, which would have operated the Freelance for the government in an outward-bound type of program for the province's youth, said he does not recommend B.C. try to rebuild the Freelance.

He said valuable machinery, such as the engines, might make some salvage work worthwhile.

Ney said the saddest thing is the loss of a dream.

"I hope the visions of a dream don't disappear," he said.

"We very desperately need one (a youth training vessel). This is a real setback in our hopes — dreams are hard to come by."

Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, whose ministry had authorized the purchase, agreed.

"The losers will be a couple of thousand youngsters per year in the province." Bawlf said today.

Luxury Homes Proposed

Vancouver consulting architects are proposing subdivision of the former Oak Bay riding academy property into luxury townhouses.

The firm of Vern H. Delgatty was asked by council to make alternative proposals for development of nearly 10 acres on Cedar Hill Cross Road, now being vacated by the riding academy.

Mayor Brian Smith said the proposals would be outlined at tonight's council meeting at 8 in the municipal hall.

He said one proposal which seems attractive is the construction of a 64-unit townhouse arrangement looking across an artificial lake to Uplands golf course. He said another alternative might be five-storey medium density apartments rather than any high density development which zoning now permits.

Psoriasis Clinic Opens

Victoria General Hospital officially opened its new psoriasis day-care clinic today.

Among those attending the ceremony was Mrs. Anez Heslop, president of the hospital women's auxiliary. The auxiliary has raised about $31,000 for the clinic.

The clinic will be in full operation July 17.

PILOT DROWNS IN SHIP FALL

A Pacific Pilotage Authority pilot drowned late Sunday night off Brotchie Ledge.

Captain Ed Sonne, 48, of 6340 Charles in Burnaby was disembarking about 10.40 p.m. from the Russian vessel Khudoznik Ioganson, outward bound from Vancouver, when he slipped from a ladder, hit the pilot boat and fell into the water. His body was recovered.

The ship is anchored at Royal Roads pending an investigation.

He Succeeded Beyond His Knowing

WE NEVER NEED MUCH excuse to justify a trip to Canada's most beautiful city, and last week we had a good one. Jack Hayes, a principal in the Victoria school system, is due to retire this year. His friends laid on a reception to which we were bidden. So, very brown and constrained in more formal clothes than we normally wear, we pointed our noses south in fine weather.

It's nice to be country cousins on a visit to the city. We forget until once more reminded how green Victoria lawns are and how opulent the flower gardens. Usually we bring with us a list of wants and needs to be shopped for. This store-to-store safari, in mild airs, under Victoria's cotton-candy sky, is always an adventure.

Win found the blue wool blazer she wanted, and by way of a bonus, a pair of super-special kitchen shears with red handles and blades sturdy enough to crunch a poultry bone. And in a store on lower Government street, I found a Grenfell cloth golf jacket to replace the tattered garment I've clung to these many years.

Then we stowed our purchases in the car trunk and took ourselves out to the Racquet Club, where the reception was to be held.

The lounge was crowded with teachers who had taught under Jack Hayes . . . with parents whose young he had introduced to learning . . . and with a number of those students themselves, now grown.

In the midst of it, we found Principal Hayes, an unassuming man rather bewildered by the fuss-and-feathers on his account, and not all that much older-seeming than the educator we remembered.

Inevitably, an affair of that sort is going to take on elements of a sentimental journey.

Our children each in turn came under Jack Hayes' gentle rule. Victoria was a little younger then, and Jack in charge of Frank Hobbs elementary. It was a nice little school, more country than urban then, and looking back on the time our two attended it, those years take on a halcyon quality.

I realize the immense importance to the unformed child of a good start in school — that other life into which our young are plunged at a tender age. A harsh principal, a cruel teacher can turn the learning experience into an ordeal. 'As the twig is bent, so will it grow'; I suspect that the way for many a future dropout is dictated by an over-harsh introduction to education.

Our two were lucky. Jack Hayes attracted teachers of his own mould to his staff. Frank Hobbs was a happy school.

"Do you remember Ron and his violin?" I asked.

Jack smiled. "I'll never forget it," he said with feeling.

Himself strongly musical, and eager that his students should share the joys of music, he launched a school string group. Our Ron, fired with his principal's enthusiasm, elected to learn the violin.

But it was not his instrument, and though he practised conscientiously, the results were catastrophic. We lived in a climate of random wails, screeches and hideous discords until, finally and sadly, Ron turned in his fiddle.

His explanation: "I can't stand all that squeaking under my ear!"

But if Jack failed to make a musician of our son, he succeeded in other directions beyond his knowing. By his own example — worth so much more than mere words — he convinced Ron that the finest thing in life to be was a teacher.

Ron has been an elementary school teacher now for 11 years. I think that he's happy in his work, and that he has never regretted his choice of teaching as a vocation.

The present reclaimed us. We left Jack and Mrs. Hayes with their heads together over their gifts.

A scrap of verse kept nudging me for admission. It applies with particular aptness to Jack Hayes, and others who like him have spent much of a lifetime guiding the young idea.

"For their work continueth," it runs, "far beyond their knowing."

Age-class track is just what the name implies.

It's for anyone, from age 8 (that's tyke) to Andy Green (who is 70 years young).

It's participaction at its best and at a level of competition that can be enjoyed.

And, for the annual Y-Times Track and Field Meet, which this weekend reached its 25th anniversary at the University of Victoria Centennial Stadium, it's the biggest of its kind, again; and the biggest event of this substance in the entire northwest.

The official count of entries was 1,063, compared to last year's "high" of 989; and they came from everywhere, and mostly from out of town.

And yes, Andy Green, that remarkable 70-year old, ran in two races, the mile and the 5,000 metres in the Masters Class, and finished in both. Some other septuagenarians should try that on a weekend! And oh, yes, Andy's best event is neither of what he ran on the weekend — it's the 10,000.

AGE-CLASS? You bet.

On the other end of the age scale there is this year's golden girl.

Linda Martin of the Flying "Y" Track Club is just 12 years old, has been running since she was in grade two, has competed in "about four" Y-Times meets previously, and will be competing in many more if she keeps improving her talents.

No bigger than a minute, figuratively speaking, all Linda did was to capture four events.

She was first in the 100 and 200 metres, and took honors in the long jump and shot putt in the peewee division, for which she was selected outstanding female athlete overall.

Her compatriot on the male side was a 15-year old from Seattle who also may be heard from again even before he grows up.

Mike Watts of Seattle Woodlands Track Club was a four-event winner and took home two awards, the outstanding male athlete overall and the best performance by a male in throwing events.

Watts set a B.C. record of 15.50 metres in the midget boys' shot putt and also a B.C. open mark of 6.16 metres in the long jump.

His other victories came in the discus and javelin.

For Best Performance

Outstanding performers in The Y-Times Track and Field meet at Centennial Stadium at the weekend were:

FEMALE

JUMPS — Scarlet Vandenbos, Kajacs.
TRACK — Katie Frahm, Seattle Eastside.
OVERALL — Linda Martin, Flying "Y".

MALE

JUMPS — Doug Porter, Unattached.
TRACK — Trevor McRae, Flying "Y".
THROWS — Mike Watts, Seattle Woodland.
OVERALL — Mike Watts, Seattle Woodland.

The third four-time winner at the meet was Trevor McRae of the Flying "Y" who received the Bill Kendall Memorial Trophy as the outstanding male in track.

McRae won the bantam boys' 100, 200 and 800 metres, and also the shot putt.

Another award winner was Scarlet Vandenbos of Kajaks, who already is a five-year veteran of Y-Times competition. She had the best performance for a female in jumping with a leap of 1.75 metres in the high jump.

Katie Frahn of Seattle is, like Martin, only 12 years of age, has been competing for five years, has been here once previously, and was judged to have the best performance in track with victories in the 800 and 1,500 metres. She won the Bill Kendall Memorial award for females.

Doug Porter, unattached, set a B.C. open and native record with a vault of 4.05 metres in the juvenile pole vault. That earned him the top jumping award.

Other records fell to Gary Hong of Vancouver Olympic Club who finished second to Watts in the long jump with a leap of 5.97 metres, a B.C. native record; and to Alex Ritchie of Coquitlam Cheetahs, who won the 1,500 metre steeplechase in 4:28.3. This is a new B.C. open and native record for juvenile men. The old mark was 4:29.9.

Brenda Dore of Richmond took home three titles. She won the A 100 and A 200 metres, and the A long jump in the girls' midget section; Mike Dailey of Alberni won the midget boys' B shot putt, discus and javelin.

In addition there were 17 double winners, most notable of whom was Colleen Gibson of Abbotsford.

Gibson won the women's open 100 metres in 12 seconds flat and the 200 metres in 25.5. Gail Gummer of Esquimalt was second in both events with Cheryl Noble of Mercuries third.

Judy Tobacco, running for the Vancouver Olympic Club, won the 400 metres in 56.2 seconds while Debbie Campbell of Mercuries saved a victory for the home folks with a win in the 800 metres in the time of 2:12.1.

Zuonko Stankovic of VOC was the only double winner in men's open competition. Stankovic captured the 100 metres in 10.4 seconds and the 400 metres in 48.6.

'Y' Tops Team List; Seattle Women Best

It was an international split in team awards at the 25th anual Y-Times Track and Field Meet at Centennial Stadium on the weekend.

While Victoria's Flying "Y" prevailed to take men's and overall honors, Seattle Eastside showed the way in the women's events.

The host Flying "Y" accumulated 798 points to lead the men's race with Burnaby Striders second with 595 and Richmond third with 518.

Seattle Eastside had 601 points to sweep to an easy win in the women's division.

"Hi, Daddy! I was just gettin' this for you."

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Today's deal is presented as a "bridge mystery." You are informed that our South declarer lost his game contract because he failed to utilize the facts that were available to him. It is your job to unearth these facts.

Both sides vulnerable.
West deals.

SOUTH

♣ A 10

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: King of ◇.

West cashed his three top diamonds, East discarding the deuce of hearts on the third diamond lead. Had West played a fourth diamond at this point, East would have made his singleton king of trumps. But West chose to lead a heart at trick four, declarer overtaking dummy's jack with his ace. He then led the queen of trumps and took the finesse against West's hoped-for king. But East possessed this key card, and it won the setting trick. Where did declarer slip?

It would be hindsight to say that if declarer had put up the board's ace of trumps — instead of finessing — he would have caught East's singleton king. Surely East didn't figure to have been dealt the singleton king. Yet the fact remains that East's singleton king should have been felled by dummy's ace.

Reverting to the bidding, West had not only passed originally, but he had also failed to overcall South's opening one-spade bid. And West was known to have started with five diamonds headed by the ace, king and queen. Surely if West had also possessed the guarded king of trumps, he would either have opened the bidding or overcalled. Surely West could not have possessed the spade king.

Therefore, South's finessing against West for the king of spades (as South had done) could never have been the winning play. Since it was known that East had the spade king, declarer's sole hope of avoiding the loss of a trump trick depended on the king being a singleton. Very simply, it was a matter of hope versus no hope.

"How old am I?" Amanda smiled. "You know it's very rude to ask, but I will tell you. If you add seven times its last figure to three times its first, you'll get my age for sure."

How old was she?

NEW YORK (AP) — Gambling issues continued their recent surge today while the rest of the stock market languished in relatively quiet trading.

The 2 p.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.85 at 818.17.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-to- margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Gambling-related stocks caught up in a speculative buying binge since the opening of the Resorts International's casino in Atlantic City, N.J., last month, scored some further gains today.

Playboy Enterprises climbed 4¼ to 30⅛, Caesars World gained ⅞ to 28¾, and Bally Manufacturing added one to 39.

The Financial Times index closed at 453.0, off 3.3.

Outlook Dim For Recovery

TORONTO (CP) — The Permanent, one of Canada's major trust and mortgage companies, has forecast a gloomy outlook for the Canadian economy in the next two years.

"At the present time, we see very little tangible evidence which would warrant an optimistic appraisal of Canada's economic prospects over the next two years," the company said in an updated version of its economic outlook.

It said signs that the economy is starting to emerge from the sluggish growth rates of the last two years are tentative at best.

"Moreover, a mood of caution and uncertainty is firmly entrenched and is in evidence across the board spectrum of economic activity."

The company's conclusion is that the economy will move in a sideways fashion to the end of 1979 with only modest rates of growth.

Prices should drop in the forecast period but "will remain nevertheless at unacceptably high levels."

It forecast higher unemployment and said the jobless rate could displace inflation as the top priority of economic policy.

The Permanent also said it is difficulty to justify the view that Canada could be embarking on a sustainable recovery path "at a point in time when our southern neighbor, the U.S., is in the advance stages of its cyclical expansion."

Credit Union Reserves Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Credit Union Reserve Board reports that its share and deposit guarantee fund reached a new high of $22.7 million as of Dec. 31, 1977, up from $18 million a year earlier.

The projection offered depositors by the fund is in addition to the reserves of the 173 credit unions in B.C., which amounted to $64.9 million at the end of 1977.

The reserve board made grants and conditional loans of $178,623 to credit unions during 1977, the lowest amount since 1971.

The reserve board arranges insurance coverage under a master bonding program on behalf of credit unions in the province.

The board's annual report says cost of claims decreased last year due to fewer claims in the burglary and robbery categories.
